

MURDER IS CHARGED

George Gianakos Was Held Without Bail

He Was Given a Preliminary Hearing in the Police Court Today—The Case Was Sent to the Grand Jury

George Gianakos, who is charged with having murdered Aristides Georgopoulos, was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Hadley in the police court this morning and after three witnesses for the government had been called and testified probable cause was found and the defendant was held without bail to await the sitting of the grand jury.

The government's case was conducted by Harry C. Sawyer, second assistant district attorney, assisted by Inspector Charles M. Byrne, of the state police, and the defendant's interests were looked after by Daniel J. Donahue. There were but three witnesses presented by the government, Dr. J. V. Meigs, the medical examiner, who performed the autopsy on Georgopoulos' body; Athanasios Georgopoulos, a distant relative of the dead man, who was present when the shooting took place; and Costas Papafagos, who resided in the same building with the defendant, and who testified that he heard Gianakos threaten that he would take Georgopoulos' life.

The shooting took place on Saturday night, July 30th, on the canal bridge in Suffolk street near the corner of Ford street.

Charge of Murder

The specific charge against Gianakos is that he "with force and arms in and upon one Aristides Georgopoulos feloniously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought did make and assault, and that the said George Gianakos a certain pistol from and there charged with gun powder and one leaden bullet, then and there feloniously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought, did discharge and shoot off, to, against, and upon said Aristides Georgopoulos, and that the said George Gianakos with the leaden bullet aforesaid, out of the pistol aforesaid, said then and there by the force of the gun powder aforesaid, by the said George Gianakos discharged the shot off as aforesaid, did strike, penetrate and wound the said Aristides Georgopoulos, in and upon the body of the said Aristides Georgopoulos, giving to the said Aristides Georgopoulos, then and there, with the leaden bullet aforesaid, so as aforesaid discharged, and shot off out of the pistol aforesaid, by the said George Gianakos, in and upon the body of the said Aristides Georgopoulos, one mortal wound of which said mortal wound the said Aristides Georgopoulos then and instantly died. And so your complainant aforesaid upon his oath aforesaid says that the said Geo. Gianakos him, the said Aristides Georgopoulos in the manner and by the means aforesaid, feloniously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought, did kill and murder, against the peace of said commonwealth, and contrary to the form of statute in such case made and provided."

Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs

The first witness called for the government was Medical Examiner Joseph V. Meigs, who testified in part as follows: "On Saturday night, July 30th, my attention was called to the fact that there had been a shooting and the body was at the Corporation hospital. On the following day, Sunday, I viewed the body at the hospital. The time of death was about 11:40 on the night of the 30th and I performed an autopsy about 10:30 o'clock the following morning.

"I found that there was a wound on the left side of the abdomen extending inwards and downwards and perforating the intestines and posterior bladder wall. There were no other marks of violence. It was a punctured and penetrating wound made by a bullet. There were blackish stains about the wound. I located the bullet in the urinary bladder. It appeared to be of a 32 calibre.

"At this point the bullet was produced and Attorney Sawyer offered it in evidence.

When asked what he considered the cause of death, witness said it was the result of a gunshot wound of the abdomen which produced hemorrhages and a shock. He was of the opinion that the dead man was about 35 years of age, weighed about 210 pounds and was about five feet, ten inches in height.

Dr. Meigs Cross Examined

On cross examination Dr. Meigs said that he had examined Georgopoulos' heart and found no trouble there. There was a slight congestion of the membranes and brain itself, but he considered the disturbance of the brain trivial.

"Did you find any other organs trouble?" asked Lawyer Donahue.

"The kidneys were not in a healthy condition. The right kidney had pus in the pelvis and the left kidney was a fatty kidney."

"Would you call that trouble Bright's disease?"

"It might be."

Dr. Meigs was then excused.

Distant Relative of Dead Man

Athanasios Georgopoulos, a distant relative of the dead man, was the next witness called. He said that he did not become acquainted with Georgopoulos until he came to this country and had known the man but about two months prior to the shooting.

"Did you know the defendant, Gianakos?" asked Attorney Sawyer.

"I knew him by sight and only remember seeing him twice," answered witness.

"At any time before Saturday night—the night of the shooting—did you know of any trouble between Georgopoulos and Gianakos?"

"I did."

"How did you know of the trouble?"

"Previous to that Saturday the women had some trouble. I was present when the trouble was going on."

"Was Georgopoulos or Gianakos present at the time?"

"Georgopoulos was not present. I saw Gianakos about half an hour later."

"How long previous to the shooting was this trouble between the women?"

"Seven or eight days previous."

"After that trouble did you hear any talk from either Georgopoulos or Gianakos about the trouble?"

"Yes, sir."

"When was that. How long before the shooting?"

"The shooting did you hear Gianakos and Georgopoulos in conversation?"

"No, sir."

"On the night of the shooting were you with Georgopoulos?"

"I was."

"What time did you meet him that night?"

"About seven o'clock or quarter to seven."

"Where did you meet him?"

"At the coffee house of Regis."

"How long did you stay in the coffee house?"

"Twenty minutes or half an hour."

"Where did you go?"

"We went to a saloon to get some beer."

"Was anyone with you besides Georgopoulos?"

"Yes, sir; there were five of us, John Courangis, Xanthopoulos and John Regis' brother-in-law."

"How many drinks did you have?"

"We had two glasses of beer."

"After having the drinks in the saloon, where did you go?"

"We went strolling around the city, through Merrimack and Market streets and then towards Moody street."

"Who was with you at that time as you went through Moody street?"

"Georgopoulos, myself and three others."

Met Gianakos

"Did you later meet Gianakos?"

"We did."

"Whereabouts did you meet him?"

"We met him just at the place where the shooting took place."

"Where was that in reference to the bridge which crosses the canal?"

"It is on the bridge just before you cross to go down to the mills."

"Who was with Gianakos?"

"Patrickios."

"Georgopoulos said 'good evening' and Patrickios answered the greeting, but Gianakos did not. Georgopoulos said to Gianakos, 'George, I would like to tell you something.' Gianakos said, 'I would like to tell you something, but at some other time.' Georgopoulos said, 'Why not talk it over now?' and Gianakos said, 'Well, let's talk it over.'"

"When they came close to each other Gianakos stepped into the street and they grabbed hold of each other by the lapels of their coats and began talking. Georgopoulos said, 'Have you said these words?' and Gianakos said, 'I have not.' Then Georgopoulos said to him, 'Will I go bring you a witness that you said certain things?' and then he called Courangis. When Georgopoulos called for Courangis—he was farther up the street—he came towards us."

"How far away was he?"

"From here about across the other side of Market street," said witness, pointing at the window in the court room.

"Where were you standing during the talk?"

"I was nearby."

"Where was Patrickios?"

"He was there with me."

"During the talk were both men holding to the other's coat?"

Objection raised and question was withdrawn.

"When he called for Courangis what then took place?"

"When Georgopoulos called for Courangis, Gianakos put his hand in his pocket."

"Which pocket?"

"In his right hand pocket. Hardly had Courangis reached us when Georgopoulos said to him, 'Did Gianakos say those things?' and then he answered 'yes' and immediately the shooting took place."

"Did you see a pistol?"

"Yes, sir."

"Who had the pistol?"

"Gianakos."

"Did you see the pistol before you heard the shot fired?"

"I did not."

"After the shot was fired and they started to run, in which direction did Gianakos run?"

"He took the direction towards Moody street."

"What did you see Gianakos do with the pistol as he ran away?"

"When he was running I saw the pistol drop from his hand."

"Did you afterwards see the pistol?"

"I didn't. I saw the policeman pick it up."

"Did you run in the direction that Georgopoulos or Gianakos took?"

"I ran in the direction that Georgopoulos took. It was dark and I could not see anything until I bumped into Georgopoulos. He said 'I am shot.' He said, 'He's killed me; he's killed me.'"

"Where did you and Courangis take Georgopoulos?"

"To a drug store."

"Witness then said that they remained in the drug store until the ambulance arrived and took the man to the hospital."

Witness Cross-Examined

Lawyer Donahue put the witness through a rigid cross-examination endeavoring to make him contradict the testimony offered in direct examination.

"When Georgopoulos spoke to Gianakos the second time did Gianakos say anything to him?" asked Mr. Donahue.

"Yes, Gianakos said: 'I want to see you myself but come some other time.'"

THE SONDER RACES

American Boats Out for the Semi-final Events

MARBLEHEAD, Aug. 12.—With the Spanish yachtsmen as intensely interested spectators, the seven American boats which survived the preliminary contests went out today for the semi-final events in the international races this year.

The yachts which were found to be the best of the original thirteen starters with their owners, clubs and designers, were as follows:

Harpoon, C. F. Adams 2d, Eastern Yacht club, Boardman.

Boniver, C. H. W. Foster, Eastern Yacht club, Burgess.

Cima, Guy Lowell, Eastern Yacht club, Boardman.

Lady, R. DeBoardman, Eastern Yacht club, Boardman.

Sally XI, L. F. Percival, Corinthian Yacht club, Crowninshield.

Demon, F. R. Crowninshield, Eastern Yacht club, Boardman.

Boniver, G. H. Whitman, Boston Yacht club, Owen.

The point system of selecting boats, which worked so satisfactorily during the past three days and which lightened materially the duties of the regatta committee, was put back into the lockers as far as the present series is concerned and the committee reserved the right today to eliminate or select the three boats for the American team at its own discretion. It seemed to be the general opinion this morning before the yachts went out for the race that if the Harpoon continues to lead in all the races as she has done in those early in the week that the committee might choose her without further trials and let the other boats contest for the two remaining places.

The yachts went out of the harbor in a northeaster which seemed to have good strength on shore but faded away to a calm a few miles out. For the first time in the series the vessels were given a leeward and windward course. Spinnakers were hauled out and all hands made ready for a slide down hill to the first mark.

The Lady slipped away from the other boats and, having the buoy close by, got the whistle and went over with the wind fairly clear. Ten minutes after the start the Lady was well in the lead, the Sally and Harpoon had passed the Boniver and the Cima had gone by the Demon.

Just before the start the flagship Emerald with the visiting Spanish yachtsmen aboard came out. The Spaniards lined the port and closely watched the maneuvers of their American rivals.

The threatening weather of the early evening failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the parishioners of the Immaculate Conception church, for they thronged beautiful Columbus park at the evening's festivities in connection with the annual lawn party, and everyone had a good time.

Again the auto trips proved to be one of the most popular features, and this time there were autos galore and every one was accommodated. The autos were stationed in Fayette street, so as to avoid congesting East Merrimack street. The ride included High street to Rogers, to Nesmith, to East Merrimack, and many took it several times.

Instead of the Japanese matras last evening, several large auto lights were used, and at all times the light was sufficient. As in the afternoon the Cadet band gave a pleasing concert under the direction of John J. Giblin, while the many features of the Midway were most liberally patronized.

Joe Souza contributed his services as African Dodger, and he was one of the big hits of the Midway.

Everyone admitted that the side show was a marvelous affair. Little Johnnie Curry, as the dwarf, played his part perfectly. Allan Dmyr was fearfully and wonderfully made up as the fat baby. Thomas Heane impersonated "Maggie Murphy," and there was some class to "Maggie." John and Martin O'Connell were the Siamese twins, and Francis Calin was the Chantrelle at the Senior. Harold Warner, George Davis, Chester McCormick, Walter Polly, Mrs. E. J. Trubey, Mr. C. B. Stoddard, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Polly, 1507 1/2 Dola Hayes, Miss Marjorie Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McCormick, Mrs. Helen Burke, Mrs. Anna Foote, Mrs. and Mrs. W. A. Guss, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Dickinson, Mrs. Elias Dola Hayes, Mrs. Marion Steel, Mrs. John T. Hall, large spray from cradle roll department of Bessie E. Scribner's Sunday school department. Burial was in the Riverside cemetery under the direction of J. A. Weinbeck, undertaker.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Man Trying to Avoid One Stepped in Front of Another

EXETER, N. H., Aug. 12.—The old story of sleeping from one railroad track to escape being hit by a train into the path of another going to an opposite direction explains the death of John Caverhill, and the serious injury to a man known only as Shannon here today. Both men were section hands and members of a party at work on the Boston & Maine tracks about a quarter of a mile east of Exeter. While at work this forenoon the two men stepped off the tracks they were working on only to be struck by an excursion train from Boston bound east. Caverhill was instantly killed but Shannon was struck on a broken leg and arm. The other section hands succeeded in getting off the tracks and were not injured.

said about Georgopoulos' sister during the argument between the two men.

"Didn't you strike Gianakos?"

"No, sir."

"Didn't you interfere while the men were struggling?"

"No, sir."

Costas Papafagos Called

Costas Papafagos, who lived in the same building as did Gianakos, was called and said he had heard talk between Gianakos and someone else while he was going up the stairs to the tenement which he occupies. He said that Gianakos was talking about Georgopoulos. That was about 11:20 on the morning of the day of the shooting.

"What did you hear Gianakos say about Georgopoulos?"

"I heard Gianakos telling his wife not to go to Georgopoulos' place any more because he said 'I am going to cut him in four pieces.' I then heard him say, 'So far as Georgopoulos is concerned, I am going to fix him. I am going to show him what I am.'"

"Did you hear anything later in the day?"

"No."

"Did you hear the word 'kill' used by Gianakos at that time?"

This question was objected to and the objection sustained.

"Do you remember testifying at the inquest about a week ago?"

"I do."

"Do you recall hearing Gianakos use the word 'kill' while talking to his wife?"

"I didn't exactly say the word 'kill' but from the slang of the Greek it means 'kill.'"

Witness knew nothing about the shooting.

At this point Attorney Sawyer informed the court that the government would rest its case and asked that the defendant be held without bail for the grand jury.

Lawyer Donahue offered no defense.

Judge Hadley found probable cause of guilty and ordered the defendant to be remanded to jail without bail to await the sitting of the grand jury.

PUBLIC SWIMMING POOLS

The committee on convenience houses, shelter houses and other things went to Brookline yesterday and looked over the swimming tanks and gymnasiums connected with the shelter houses, so-called, at that place.

Councilman Chapman is chairman of the committee, and he has the reputation of seeing things in a clear way. He was very much taken with the shelter houses and their appointments at Brookline, but he knows that Lowell would not stand for so elaborate an arrangement. He does believe, however, that Lowell is in need of shelter houses and public baths and he also believes that the cost of installation doesn't represent the cost of a great good that shelter houses and public baths will do. Brookline is wealthy and votes $25,000 a year for the support of its combination shelter house and gymnasium, and the Lowell committee was told that quite a considerable of that amount was paid back yearly to the treasury. Beneath the roof of this shelter, so-called, there is a laundry and the laundry of the department and other laundry is done there. It is expected that the institution will soon pay for itself, or be put on a paying basis.

The regular meeting of Division 28, A. O. H., was held last night. President Hubert McQuade in the chair. There was a large attendance and considerable routine business was transacted. Four propositions for membership were received and four candidates initiated. The division is making every effort to increase the membership for the state parade. C. F. Slaterry and John P. Gookin spoke on the good of the order.

STATUS OF BANKS

Discussed by the National Monetary Commission

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The difference between the character and status of the first and second banks of the United States incorporated early in the country's history, and the conception of a central bank as developed under modern conditions in Europe, is brought out in a forcible manner in a volume just made public by the National monetary commission. The volume consists of two parts—a study of the first bank of the United States, by Dr. John Thom Holdsworth, of the University of Pittsburgh, and a study of the second bank of the United States, by Dr. Davis R. Dewey, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the author of "A Financial History of the United States."

The essay of Doctor Holdsworth recounts the plan of Hamilton to found a bank for the purpose of aiding the government, which became a law in 1791. It is declared by Hamilton that a national bank was not "a mere matter of private property, but a political machine of the greatest importance to the state."

Thus conceived as a political machine, it is declared by the author that the bank "never threw off entirely its political trappings, and it finally died as the result of political enmities and jealousies."

The capital of the bank, which was fixed at $10,000,000, was allowed to be subscribed to the proportion of three-quarters in United States stock bearing 6 per cent interest, and the president of the United States was authorized to subscribe one-half of the government bonds of $2,000,000. An equal amount was to be loaned by the bank to the government which was to be repaid in 10 equal annual installments. It is obvious, from these details, that the capital was raised more largely by bookkeeping transfers than by the actual payment of specie, at a time when specie was extremely scarce. The device by which Hamilton carried through the government subscription is depicted as an ingenious example of financial juggling. Shorn of technicalities, the government paid for its stock by bills of exchange on Amsterdam, then it borrowed these bills and gave its note for $2,000,000, payable in 10 equal annual installments, with interest at 6 per cent. The practice thus instituted by the government itself, of paying subscriptions with stock notes, was followed widely, and in numerous instances with disastrous effects in the next fifty years. The central office of the bank was in Philadelphia, on the machine of the greatest importance to the state. Thus conceived as a political machine, it is declared by the author that the bank "never threw off entirely its political trappings, and it finally died as the result of political enmities and jealousies."

The capital of the bank, which was fixed at $10,000,000, was allowed to be subscribed to the proportion of three-quarters in United States stock bearing 6 per cent interest, and the president of the United States was authorized to sub-

WORTH A MOUNTAIN OF GOLD

During Change of Life, Says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Granville, Vt.—"I was passing through the change of life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth a mountain of gold to me. It has restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Granville, Vt.

No other medicine for women's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

of crude banking methods as measured by current standards, and, finally, that the bank in its closing years was subject to a political attack, violent, indiscriminating, and even unscrupulous in its character. It is difficult, therefore, to find in the experience of this institution any lessons of importance which may be of special service in the preparation of a plan for a national central bank at a later period, when business methods have been transformed by the method of the telephone and by the development of corporate enterprise, to say nothing of the change in banking law through the general substitution of national supervision for state control."

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

For the past two weeks it has either rained or looked like it, but a little thing like that has not kept the crowds away from Lakeview theatre where the present attraction, "The Social Outlaw," is being shown. The play is a new and novel manner. The action takes place in the south at the time of the Civil war and hinges on the saving of the family honor by a girl after her brother has been dishonored. It costs her her life and to keep her sacrifice and the state of the family honor is the brother remains a virtual prisoner for years. It is a most dramatic subject and one that has plenty of thrills. "Her Mother's Wedding Gown" is a delightful subject, dainty and with a beautiful, pathetic story running through it. It is admirably staged and the stars are in the best of the comedy and the musical program is pleasing to all. The usual Sunday concert will be given next Sunday and a most pleasing program will be offered.

It costs her her life and to keep her sacrifice and the state of the family honor is the brother remains a virtual prisoner for years. CANOBIE LAKE THEATRE

Judging from the increase in attendance at Canobie Lake theatre since vaudeville has been installed, Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill theatregoers are saying to themselves, "if it's good, it's better." If it's good, it's better. Never before in the history of this pretty summer theatre has there been such an overflowing attendance. Mr. J. W. Gorman fully realizes that Canobie lake patrons appreciate the best, and he is surely giving them what they want. The following excellent bill speaks for itself.

Burdette, Johnson & Burdette—a winsome girl and two clever men in acrobatic feats.

Marguerite Murray and Joseph M. Baker, in a unique presentation of singing and dancing novelties.

Estelle, impersonator and character vocalist.

Marron and Heims, in a little old-time minstrelsy.

The famous "Cowboy quartet," with Bert LaMonte, America's acknowledged king of the tenor, in quartet singing, dancing, funny stories and laughable songs. This excellent offering will open their engagement Monday, Aug. 15, with a special matinee.

A BIG INCREASE

In the Consumption of Sugar

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Sugar consumption of the United States in the fiscal year just ended was larger than ever before and was also larger than ever before in the history of the United States and in the non-contiguous territories. The quantity of sugar consumed in the country during the fiscal year just ended was, according to estimates of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, 7 1/2 billion pounds, speaking in round terms, or an average of 32 pounds per capita. On only two occasions, 1906 and 1907, had the consumption crossed the 7 billion line, and on only four other occasions, 1908, 1909, 1910 and 1911, had the total passed the 6 billion line.

In supplying this largest quantity of sugar ever consumed in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the best sugar fields of the United States contributed in each case larger quantities for domestic consumption than ever before. The Philippines contributed a larger quantity than at any other time since annexation, while the contributions of the cane fields of the United States were slightly less than in several earlier years. The quantity of sugar sent to the United States from the Hawaiian Islands in the fiscal year 1910 was 1111 million pounds, against 1079 million in 1909, the former high record year; from Porto Rico, 569 million against 498 million in 1909, the former high record year; and from the Philippine Islands, 176 million pounds, a total larger than in any year since 1899. The contribution of the best sugar fields of continental United States to the consumption of the fiscal year 1910 was 1025 million pounds, against 967 million in the high record year, 1907, while the cane sugar production of the United States contributed 750 million pounds, against 529 million in 1907, the former high record year. As a consequence of this increased supply from Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands and the best sugar fields of the United States, the quantity of sugar imported from foreign countries fell from 5106 millions pounds in the fiscal year, 1909, to 3918 million in 1910.

From these figures it appears that the sugar fields of continental United States supplied about 34 per cent of the consumption in this country in the fiscal year 1910, the non-contiguous territories of the United States about 29 per cent, and foreign countries about 37 per cent. In 1907 foreign countries supplied about 75 per cent of the total sugar consumption of the country.

This reduction in the share which foreign countries are supplying of the sugar consumed in the United States, from an average of about 75 per cent prior to 1900 down to a little more than 35 per cent at the present time, is due in part to an increase in the production of beet sugar in the United States and in part to increased contributions from the non-contiguous territories. In the calendar year 1909 the quantity of beet sugar produced in the United States was, according to figures of the department of agriculture, 1,025 million pounds, against 73 million in 1899, a decade earlier, or 15 times as much in 1909 as in 1899. The quantity of cane sugar produced in the country was, in 1909, according to the same authority, 750 million pounds, against 569 million in 1899. The quantity of cane sugar brought from Hawaii in the fiscal year 1910 was, according to figures of the bureau of statistics, 1,111 million pounds, against 495 million in 1909; from Porto Rico, 569 million pounds, against 498 million in 1909; and from the Philippine Islands, 176 million pounds, against 49 million in 1909.

The contribution of the sugar fields of continental United States to the consumption of the fiscal year 1910 was thus 1775 million pounds, of which 1025 million pounds was beet sugar and 750 million pounds cane sugar. Prior to 1907 the quantity of cane sugar produced in the United States exceeded that from beets. Beginning with 1907, the quantity supplied from beets exceeded that from cane and has so continued down to the present time. The growth of beet sugar production in the United States during the last 12 years has been much more rapid than that of cane sugar, the best sugar crop of 1909 having been 90 million pounds, against that of 1900, 10 1/2 million, while that of cane in 1909 was 708 million pounds, and in 1900, 750 million pounds. The quantity of sugar brought from the non-contiguous territories has also largely increased meantime, having been in the fiscal year 1900: from Hawaii, 305 million pounds, against 1111 million in 1910; from Porto Rico, 73 million pounds, against 569 million in 1910; and from the Philippine Islands, 49 million, against 176 million in 1910, making the total from the non-contiguous territories in 1900 about 627 million pounds, against 1856 million in 1910, or practically three times as much in 1910 as in 1900.

Adding to the domestic sugar production in the calendar year 1909 the receipts from the non-contiguous territories and the imports from foreign countries in the fiscal year 1910, and deducting the quantity shipped from continental United States, gives a total consumption of 7,369 million pounds, an average of 31.36 pounds per capita, the largest, with two exceptions, in the history of the country. In 1870 the per capita consumption was 32.73 pounds; in 1880, 39.46 pounds; in 1890, 31 pounds; in 1907, the high record year, 32.61 pounds; and in 1910, as already stated, 31.36 pounds. Meanwhile the share of domestic consumption supplied by foreign sugar has fallen from an average of 75 per cent prior to 1900 to 51 per cent in 1910.

ACTING MAYOR

Wants Salary for His Services

LAWRENCE, Aug. 12.—Acting Mayor Jordan and City Treas. Kelleher went to Boston yesterday and delivered the $120,000, paying loan bond to the Old Colony Trust company to which the issue was sold.

Mr. Jordan today signed the bills included in the July draft. "This is the first draft to be paid since he assumed the duties of executive."

It will include a bill of his own, amounting to $22.65 for services as acting mayor, during the latter part of July. Some question has been raised by friends of Dr. Cahill, a candidate for mayor, as to the legality of this charge. Mr. Jordan says he has the opinion of the city solicitor as to the validity.

REV. FR. O'CALLAGHAN

Re-elected Head of Body of Temperance Workers

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—The sessions of the fortieth annual convention of the Catholic total abstinence union of America were brought to a close in Faneuil hall last night. The closing feature was the reelection of the national officers by unanimous vote and the city in which the next convention should be held was left to the discretion of the governing council of the union.

The committee on resolutions through J. Washington Logue of Philadelphia reported a set of resolutions that endorsed the action of bodies that restricted alcoholic liquors from their social gatherings and condemned Catholic papers that printed in their columns advertisements of liquor concerns.

The closing day of the deliberations was marked by three addresses. The first of these dealt with the union's attitude toward legislation and was submitted by Rev. Walter J. Shanley of Danbury, Conn. The second paper was read by Rev. Fr. George J. Waring, U. S. A., chaplain of the Milwaukee cavalry, and his words created a most profound interest. He spoke of the many temptations with which the soldier is confronted and said that the abolishment of the canteen was a great mistake for which the American soldier had no good feeling toward the U. S. C. T. U.

At the afternoon session Rev. Fr. Edmund B. E. McDonald, chaplain of the U. S. S. North Carolina, spoke and told of the life of the sailor and urged that one way to cheer a sailor was to have him receive letters from home. He characterized the life as a lonely one and from lack of something better to occupy his mind and attention the sailor oftentimes fell into bad ways.

The national officers elected for the ensuing year were: Rev. Fr. Peter J. O'Callaghan, C. S. P., of Chicago, president; Rev. Fr. Joseph G. Beane of Pittsburgh, first vice president; John J. Corbett of New Haven, Conn., second vice president; Miss Katherine Kelley of Kansas City, Mo., third vice president; Rev. J. V. Moxham of Natick, Pa., treasurer, and John T. Shea of Boston, secretary.

Resolutions Adopted

The resolutions adopted were as follows:

The Catholic total abstinence union of America, assembled in its fortieth annual convention, renews its allegiance to the church and asserts the fidelity of its members to our country.

Primarily organized for the purpose of promoting sobriety, and to prevent as much as possible by advice and example the sin of intemperance in others, and as our church stands militant against vice, be it through our members to array themselves in active opposition to the liquor traffic and to associate themselves wherever possible for the enactment of such laws as will lessen the dangers of this business.

We recognize that intemperance is associated with the liquor traffic, however restricted, and is the natural sequence of its existence. The enforcement of laws is as necessary as their enactment. It is the duty, therefore, of our members not only to promote the enactment of restrictive legislation, but as well, in fulfillment of the obligation of their pledge, to endeavor to see that such laws are enforced.

We recognize that the preservation of the child is absolutely necessary for the future protection of both church and state. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we commend the practice of the administration of the time of confirmation and first holy communion.

We urge their formation into societies and beseech that parents will set the example to their children of sobriety by associating themselves with a total abstinence society.

Advocate Temperance Textbooks

We recognize with pleasure that advanced education instructs the child regarding many dangers of a physical character that will confront it in the world. We cannot fail but recognize from statistics that the greatest danger to the growing generation is intoxicating liquor. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we urge and request the introduction of textbooks into Catholic schools so that the child early in life will become scientifically acquainted with the dangers incident to the use of alcohol.

We observe with pleasure the action of many Catholic societies that exclude from their festivities the use of intoxicating liquors. Be it

Resolved, That approving of this action, we earnestly request that such organizations will assist further in the prevention of intemperance by urging their members to an association with the total abstinence cause.

Since the organization of our union we have been constantly receiving the commendation and approval of people in authority. Appreciating their kindness and recognizing the impress that has been made by them, we solicit such for the future and in doing so be it

Resolved, That we ask them to go a step further and give to us their association in the total abstinence cause; thereby in their example and association manifesting to everybody their sincere belief in the extension of total abstinence principles and total abstinence practice.

Ask Societies to Exclude Liquors

The Catholic clubhouse should be the headquarters for the extension of Catholic doctrine and the maintenance of Catholic morality. It is universally recognized that the use of intoxicating liquors is the greatest enemy of morality. We therefore recognize the danger of the furnishing of intoxicating drinks in places where Catholic young men are assembled. Condemning this practice, be it therefore

Resolved, That we call upon all societies of Catholics to exclude from their halls, meeting places and buildings all intoxicating liquors.

We recognize the danger to our young men in their social club associations. We feel that there is special danger in membership in non-Catholic associations that maintain headquarters of a social character wherein intoxicating liquor is furnished. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we urge our Catholic young men to withhold their membership from any organization that maintains at its headquarters, or place of meeting, a sideboard or bar, or permits the use of liquor at its social gatherings.

We observe with pleasure the growing tendencies of medical authorities to condemn the general use of alcohol for medicinal purposes. We trust that their research will warrant more positive the conclusion regarding it.

Regarding Liquor as Medicine

Resolved, That we call the attention of our Catholic people to the dangers of the administration of alcoholic liquor for medicinal purposes, and especially call their attention to the dangers of the use of patent medicines, many of which contain a large percentage of alcohol; and urge that they will exclude from their use any that, according to the formula which must appear thereon under government regulations, contain alcohol.

We recognize the power of the Catholic press. We feel the force of the truth frequently stated, that the Catholic newspaper as an educational feature is a necessary incident to the Catholic home. We condemn, however, a number of Catholic newspapers that permit their columns to be used for the advertisement of the liquor business. We assert without fear of contradiction that the use of the columns of a Catholic newspaper for such purposes is totally foreign to its mission and tends to lessen its force. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we call upon the Catholic papers of America to cease advertising a traffic that has done so much harm to the members of our faith.

Mass for Deceased Members

The convention began yesterday with a solemn high mass of requiem in the cathedral of the Holy Cross for deceased members of the C. T. A. U. Very Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, C. S. P., of Chicago, the national president, officiated as celebrant of the mass and he was assisted by Rev. Dr. M. J. O'Connor of St. James' church, this city, and Rev. Charles A. O'Brien of St. Francis de Sales, Roxbury, as sub-deacon. Rev. Fr. William B. Finnigan was master of ceremonies.

The delegates after the service went to Faneuil hall, where at 10.30 the convention was called to order, and prayer offered by Bishop Connelley of Pittsburgh, the national spiritual director. Pres. Fr. O'Callaghan then named committees on resolutions, constitution and auditing.

Rev. Fr. Walter J. Shanley of Danbury, Conn., ex-president of the union, was introduced and spoke upon Catholic total abstinence union work as regards legislation. In part, he said: "As absolute prohibition is not always feasible another method, less drastic, but applicable in all communities, is the restriction of the traffic in liquor by wise legislation, and the enforcement of the excise laws. In many communities the liquor traffic can and ought to be abolished.

"Experience has proved that the removal of the temptation by the elimination of the sale of liquor in community places in which the civil authorities enforce the law, has been highly beneficial. If the traffic cannot be abolished it should be restricted. The last legislation restricting the liquor traffic has not been established. The final resources of legislation have not been attained.

Should Demand Legislation

"We should be fearless and outspoken in demanding legislation which will bring about the total extinction of the traffic, or at least diminish the trade and relegate it from the residential districts, where it is an object lesson to our children, to the business sections of our cities. We ought to agitate for conditions that will place the trade, if it must be carried on, in the hands of law-abiding dealers.

"The liquor interest is not idle. It is most active in defeating legislation that conflicts with its influences. Its power is amazing. It is a moneyed interest and is feared by our legislators. We should be fearless and hold in demanding restrictive measures.

"If we are reasonable we will adopt the best means of prevention. If we are in earnest and not half-hearted, we will go to the root of the evil. If we have the courage of our convictions, we are not cowards, we will boldly face the power of the liquor element; we will exert our best energies to defeat its machinations; we will contend unflinchingly for prohibitive and restrictive excise laws, and demand their enforcement."

Chaplain Waring Defends Soldier

Rev. Fr. George J. Waring, chaplain of the U. S. Eleventh cavalry, delegated to the convention by the war department, then read a paper in defense of the American soldier. He said in part:

"There is probably no man in the United States who is more misunderstood and less understood by the average civilian than the American soldier.

"The impression which I have received after six years of experience is that very few know anything definite about the soldier and what is more, they usually do not seem to care to find out. There appears to be a belief, which many people hold almost as tenaciously as a religion, that soldiers are bad, that their business is contemptuous and that the further one can keep from them the better.

"Many difficulties beset the path of a chaplain in his duties in the army, and unless you understand something about the soldier, his antecedents, his circumstances and conditions of life, as well as the obstacles and temptations that he has to meet with, you will not fully appreciate the importance of making him a special object of your charity and care.

"Indeed, it is from lack of such proper knowledge and information that the W. C. T. U. made the fatal error, which makes them and the very name of their organization hateful to every soldier in our army.

Not Proud of Bad Men

"But let me assure you at the outset that no man would be accepted in the army whose past record was known to be criminal, or even dishonorable. The army today is mainly composed of a superior class of young men, whose morals would compare favorably with those of any large body of young men living together under like conditions.

"It is the exception who is really bad

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMEN IN THE WORLD

Ten years ago it might be truthfully said that the most beautiful and fascinating women lived in Paris.

But ten years brings many changes in these days of almost magical advancement. Today it may be truthfully said that there are more beautiful women in the United States and Canada than in all of Europe.

There's a reason of course, and that reason is a very simple one. The women of America have learned that without lustrous and luxuriant hair no woman, no matter how attractive her features or how graceful her form, can reach the perfection that the high standard of the present day calls beauty.

The women of America have learned to take care of their hair. Since the introduction of Parisian Sage they have learned that filthy dandruff is unnecessary; that falling hair and itching scalp can be quickly stopped.

Over a million women have learned by experience that Parisian Sage is the most efficient hair invigorator, dressing and beautifier that science has ever given to the public. Parisian Sage will cause hair to grow luxuriantly in a short time; it will give to any woman's hair a lustrous radiance that compels admiration. It is a most delightful dressing for summer, as it quickly cools the scalp and drives away all odors.

It is guaranteed to eradicate dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks, or money back.

Every man, woman or child who has dandruff should use Parisian Sage; it kills the germs and nourishes the hair roots. For sale by druggists everywhere and by Carter & Sherburne, who guarantee it. A large bottle only costs 60 cents. The girl with the auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by the American makers, THE GILSON MFG. CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

In the army. We have our proportion of bad men, we admit, but we are not proud of them, nor have we any desire either to keep or to shield them.

"Now, with this apology for and truthful description of the men I represent here today, I will place before you some of the difficulties which our soldiers must constantly encounter if they endeavor to reach a higher moral or spiritual plane than their fellows.

"First of all, I have no hesitation in saying that though drinking is by no means so common in the army as it used to be, yet it is the worst evil that confronts our soldiers today.

"It is directly or indirectly responsible for 99 per cent of all their troubles and offenses. Probably not 5 per cent of my regiment can be classed as really hard drinkers, but perhaps not more than 5 per cent are total abstainers. So we may say that the great bulk of them drink more or less.

Driven to Drink by Ostracism

"Today, no man who is a hard drinker can get promotion in the army, but if he is known to be a total abstainer his chances for selection to positions of trust are vastly increased.

"Then, why do so many soldiers drink, you may ask, when it is injurious to themselves and to their interests? Because they are driven to it more or less by general public condemnation to confine themselves within certain social lines. When they are in barracks it is not so hard for them because the chaplain usually does all in his power to provide recreational diversions as well as to constantly devote himself to their intellectual and spiritual development.

"Before we can effectually make inroads against intemperance among our soldiers we will have to create public feeling in their favor. We will have to make soldiers feel they have a self-respect to maintain, a personal dignity to uphold.

Moral Sanction Commanded

"We will have to show them that we are not prejudiced against them or their profession and we will have to do all in our power to make them feel welcome in all public places as well as in the homes of their own social equals.

"This done, I am certain that it will be but a short time until total abstinence will be the rule instead of the exception among our soldiers, when drinking will be looked upon by them as disgusting and degrading, and when it will be practically impossible for drinking men to live happily in any army post. Such an outcome, of course, will take time, but each one of us can do at least something to bring it about, and this we ought to do cheerfully if we sincerely desire to combat and conquer the drink evil as it pertains to the army.

"In Fr. O'Callaghan's letter to the secretary of war, which was sent to me, he stated that this organization endeavored to promote temperance by moral suasion rather than by legislation. Commenting on this and other remarks of Fr. O'Callaghan, the secretary of war said that he was favorably disposed toward the work of such an organization as this, inasmuch as it was so broad-minded and so practical in its methods."

Fr. McDonald Speaks for Navy

Following the reading of several reports at the beginning of the afternoon session, Rev. Fr. McDonald, who had been delegated to the convention by the navy department as its representative, said that the men aboard ship are under constant restraint and when they went on liberty, or shore leave as many termed it, they naturally felt they were as good as anybody else and sometimes better.

All the saloons that were stationed near navy yards, he knew, did a thriving business and welcomed the bluejackets so long as his money lasted. When the money was gone they were thrown out, and sometimes as a result the bluejacket broke his liberty and ran away.

The navy's life was so lonesome, he continued, that the men got tired of looking at one another, and didn't have room enough "to swing a cat." The man on board ship got into a rut and after awhile felt that he was a number and not a person. He advocated the frequent writing of letters by those at home to the sons and brothers who are in the navy. This would work a world of good among the boys, he believed.

The chaplain said that disciplining aboard ship prevented the enlisted men from approaching the superior officers and naturally they sought out the chaplain. He said there were six Catholic chaplains out of 24. "There was but one Catholic chaplain attached to a naval station. As a check on intemperance he advocated that each naval station should have a Catholic chaplain and referred to the splendid work the Paulist fathers of San Francisco did by doing chaplain's work at the yard in that city.

He said that women could do a great deal in assisting in the work of advancing temperance among the sailors. Communication from home was one of the chief methods he advanced in this respect.

The recommendation of National Sec. John T. Shea for the establishment of a national aid within the union was approved and will become a part of the union's work. This was advocated in the secretary's report on Wednesday.

The convention adjourned after Rev. Fr. Francis J. Curran of Wilkesbarre, who one week ago entertained ex-President Roosevelt in the coal mining regions, administered a yearly pledge to all the delegates.

Previous to adjourning Edward J. Logue of Philadelphia moved that the thanks of the convention be extended to Archbishop O'Connell, Louis G. Freilighman, Mayor Fitzgerald, the Boston union and the daily press of Boston, especially for the excellent manner in which the convention deliberations and its several incidental features had been treated.

Adjournment was taken at 5.40 o'clock.

Riley, the new man, batted for Blakely in the 8th inning yesterday and made a hit.

Bob Ganley is playing right field every day for Newark and is averaging a hit a game with no errors.

Jess Burkett is working with night and main to land another New England league pennant, says the Baseball Magazine, and he is having a hard row to hoe in doing so.

Still he is working away for all he is worth for he is no quitter.

Tommy Dowd, who once engineered the Hartford, Conn., league champions, is giving Jess a deal of trouble with his New Bedford league team and on the 23rd administered a double-headed deuce after Tom Fleming's team had won in Worcester the day before.

In two of the three games Worcester had the lead until the very last pinch. Still Worcester was not in the lead a year ago at this time and still has a chance to repeat the showing of 1929.

Of the men doing things in this league several have been prominent with Boston clubs.

Burkett with the Boston and St. Louis Americans, Billy Hamilton with the Boston Nationals and the Phillies, Jimmy Bannan with the Boston Nationals, Tommy Dowd with the Boston Americans, while Fred Tenney, a leading spirit in the Lowell club, was with Boston and New York Nationals.

Two tried and true veterans of the baseball game are convinced that the hunt ought to go, says the Baseball Magazine. One of these is Jack Chapman, the former manager of the Louisville, the man who brought out Jimmy

CHAS. J. GLIDDEN

TAKES CHARGE OF BALLOON DIVISION OF AERO MEET

Charles J. Glidden, the well known balloonist, has taken charge of the balloon division of the coming Harvard-Boston aero meet at Atlantic.

His experience with balloons and his extensive acquaintance among aeronauts and with the aero clubs of the country gives him exceptional advantages. He has made 48 ascensions during the past few years and is considered one of the greatest balloonists in the country.

In the first place, Mr. Glidden proposes, if possible, to assemble at the Harvard-Boston aero meet all of the largest spherical balloons in the country owned by private individuals and aero clubs. Of these which will contain from 60,000 to 80,000 cubic feet of gas he hopes to get Clifford B. Harmon's "New York," the balloon "Philadelphia," which Dr. Eldredge of the Philadelphia Aero club flies; the "St. Louis," which A. B. Lambert of the St. Louis Aero club flies; the "Cincinnati," owned by the Cincinnati Aero club; the "Chicago," owned by the Chicago Aero club; the "Cleveland," owned by the Cleveland Aero club; the "Heart of the Berkshires," owned by the Pittsfield Aero club; the "Springfield," owned by the Springfield Aero club; the "Boston," owned by the New England Aero club, and several others.

GETTING READY FOR CONTESTS

SHOOTING AT THE TARGETS

WIMBLEDON CUP

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Aug. 12.—The splendid rifle ranges of the state of Ohio here are thronged with marksmen from all parts of the country. Matches are being held daily, and the constant crack of rifles and pistols denotes practice for the matches that are yet to be held. The targets are manned, and will meet tonight at 8 o'clock to decide upon an umpire for the game.

The U. S. Hunting team will play in Peiham, N. H., Saturday afternoon. Players are requested to take the 11:30 car from the square.

Saturday afternoon at 2:45 the Chelmsford baseball team will meet the North Ends on the Warren avenue grounds.

The Tigers of North Tewksbury would like to arrange a game for Saturday the 15th with any 17 year old team of the city, on the Tigers' grounds. Telephone 164-1 after 6 o'clock.

A red hot game of ball is expected Friday afternoon on the Textile school grounds, when the Married Men and the Single Men of the Lawrence Hosiery will meet. The contest will begin at 2 o'clock. Batteries for Married Men: McAlister p. Ouellette c; for Single Men: Sheehan p. Vaillancourt c.

At a meeting of the managers of the L. & S. league held last night at the Y. M. C. A. rooms it was decided to postpone the game between the O. M. I. Cadets and the Wanderers, which was to have been played on the South common this coming Saturday.

The reason for the postponement is to add the worthy cause for which the Lowell Americans-Sanctuary Choir game is to be played. Half the receipts are to aid a well known young man who is ill.

HARRY LORD

HAS BEEN TRADED TO THE WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Harry Lord and Ambrose McConnell of the Red Sox were traded yesterday to the Chicago White Sox for Frank Smith and William Purtell.

The deal was concluded after yesterday's game and it gives the Boston team what it has all the while wanted for Lord, a winning pitcher.

Smith has been out of the game for three weeks with a sprained ankle, but is now in shape and ready to take hold once more, while Purtell has been playing sensational ball for the White Sox at third.

The Chicago men will join Boston at once. McConnell will be left behind when Boston moves today and Lord has been notified to report to Chicago without delay.

Manager Hugh Duffy was very anxious to secure Lord and McConnell, as he had the two flyers with him at Providence and considers the pair real finds for the White Sox.

Pres. Comiskey was rather slow about consenting to the deal, as Purtell was picked up from the minors and is perhaps the most brilliant young third sacker today in the American league, if not in the country.

While Duffy is pleased with the deal whereby he gets Lord and McConnell, the Boston club, including Pres. Taylor and Manager Donovan, feel they have all the better of the trade.

McConnell had become of little use to the club now that it has in Gardner a young man filling the bill to perfection.

Lord was not batting any too well and as Angulo was playing the position as the regular man they figure they have a grand substitute infielder in Purtell, who can play any infield position in a first-class manner. Smith will strengthen the pitching department, his opponents being the strong South Lawrence team.

Chicago is pleased and the players will no doubt appreciate the change of base, so that everything is lovely.

Purtell is an ideal player for an extra infielder, as few men in the profession can play all the positions from first to third as well as he. He is young and a fine willing worker.

McConnell said last night that he was sorry to leave Boston, but was glad that it was to come with Hugh Duffy to Chicago.

STURDY ATHLETES WHO WILL BE IN NATIONAL CHAMPIONSHIPS

CLARK

CRAWLEY

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—The eyes of the track athletic world are now centered on Marshall field, where the national amateur all around championships will be held Aug. 13. This is the first time that the event has been held here. While Martin Sheridan, three time winner of the 100, will be unable to compete because of business affairs, enough entries already have been received to make the contests interesting. As there is no sure winner among the entrants, the competition is sure to be keen. Among the local stars who will compete are Bill Crawley, the university of Chicago all around athlete, who will captain the Maroon football team this year. Crawley is a consistent performer in the field events. Elery Clark, a veteran of the championships, who is known as the millionaire athlete of Boston, will be the oldest competitor. Clark won the event in 1907 and established a record of 6,244 points. In 1909 he secured fourth place, and in 1908 he captured the honors by scoring 6,318 points. He finished third in 1906. The only athlete who has consistently defeated him has been Martin Sheridan. The list of entries is as follows: Elery Clark, Boston, B. A. A.; John J. Cody, Newton, Mass., Newton Y. M. C. A.; Fred Thomas, Los Angeles, Cal., Occidental college; Victor Kennard, Chicago, C. A. A.; Avery Brundage, Chicago, C. A. A.; W. A. Draper, Chicago, C. A. A.; Leslie Byrd, Chicago, C. A. A.; E. AUGUST METEORS

DISPLAY MAY BE EXPECTED FROM 11TH TO THE 15TH

The August display of meteors may be looked for at any time between the present and the 15th of the month, but most likely from the 11th to the 13th. An October display is also to be expected, and there will also be another in November.

The many meteoric phenomena on record show not only that there are meteoric bodies in all the regions of space known as those of our solar system, but that they have paths, or orbits, which intersect the earth's orbit at intervals. Thus one set appears in April and other sets in July, August, October and November. When a meteor is moving rapidly toward the earth it appears to move slowly, or even to stand still, until its motion again becomes apparent on account of the change in the position of the observer, as he looks at the meteor from the rapidly moving earth.

The meteors are named from the constellations from which they appear to descend. The Aquarids appear to come from the constellation Aquarius, the Leonids from Leo and the Perseids from Perseus. But none of the meteors comes from anywhere near the constellations, as these are billions of miles away, while the meteors appear at most a few thousand miles before coming to their finish by falling on the land or water of our planet. The satisfactory proof that they belong to the solar system is that they cross the paths of the earth and other planets at several periods each year.

Meteors have been scientifically observed and recorded as far back as 644 B. C. by the Chinese. Between that time and A. D. 323, sixteen great showers of meteors were recorded in the astronomical annals of that very studious people. They were also observed by the Greeks and the Romans, who were always careful to work them up in poetry, to influence and awe the superstitious. Meteoric showers were doubtless looked for during the "Ides of March" in Julius Caesar's time, when all astronomical phenomena were called upon, as they are sometimes today, to do church and political duty.

Meteors are all sizes. One weighing twenty tons is on view at Portland, Ore. The astronomer, Halley, saw a very brilliant meteor that suddenly illuminated the streets of London. On Aug. 18, 1753, a meteor was observed as the way from Rome to the north of Italy. At Edinburgh it appeared as a single, but at Greenwich it had split into two bright balls, and they were followed by other luminous bodies. It was beyond the earth's atmosphere and had a speed of 100,000 miles a minute.

On Nov. 21, 1819, a meteor was seen from Danvers, Mass. It was descending toward the earth, and two minutes after its disappearance a rumbling noise was heard which lasted more than a minute.

On the evening of July 20, 1850, a meteor passed over the state of New York, coming from the west. It was seen over Lake Erie, and soon after at Buffalo, Albany, New York City, New Haven, Newport, R. I., and New Bedford, Mass. It was also visible from Delaware. From a vessel off Sandy Hook it appeared to fall into the sea, after splitting into two parts, which emitted sparks and flames. The larger meteors generally make their appearance at one of the periodical times, as in April, July or October, more rarely in November.

MARRIAGE LAW

HAVE TO GO SOME TO GET MARRIED IN JERSEY

New Jersey, which for more than 100 years was a sort of mecca for runaway couples, has now gone to the other extreme, and, after July 4 of this year, it will be about as hard to get married in the neighbor state as it is to commit any other "offense" under the eyes of the police.

The man and woman who have concluded to join fortunes must be accompanied by a third person when they ask for a license, and this third person must tell, under oath, how long he has known the applicants, how long they have contemplated matrimony, and whether there is any valid impediment. He must also testify as to whether either of the applicants has been married before, and as to whether such marriage was dissolved by death or divorce.

New Jersey seems to require but one more step in its evident purpose to control the individual and to exercise a paternalistic influence over his domestic life.

It is a very foolish notion, this idea that marriage can be regulated along scientific or socialistic lines. Every community that has tried it, from the Spartans of Lacedaemon to the metric tribe of the Port Barrow Eskimos, has made a mess of interference with the natural law governing sexual selections.

Proper regulation to prevent bigamy or the hasty union of minors or defectives is, of course, essential, but when a state has gone this far it has gone far enough. It is nobody's business how long a couple has contemplated matrimony, or how long they have been keeping company, and it is certainly no concern of the state whether third persons object, so long as complicity is shown and a willingness to wed is acknowledged.

The heart is not a bad adviser in matters matrimonial, as is proved by the fact that early marriages are more uniformly happy than marriages contracted later in life and after maturer deliberation. Philadelphia Telegraph.

DUDIE ARCHDALE WON

Little Black Trotter Lucky to Get Away With Event

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—Dudie Archdale, the little black trotter with three $10,000 stakes to her credit, had a narrow escape from getting her name into the list of beaten horses at North Randall yesterday afternoon before the largest crowd that has ever turned out to see the harness horses in this part of Ohio.

The Memphis mare was playing "in great luck to get away without a defeat. She was saved by the senseless three-heats-a-race system and by the ability of Ed Geers to help her home in the first two heats. Bervardo and Hallworthy had her wobbling in 2:06 1/2, 2:07, and in the third mile the sensational 4-year-old Billy Burk trotted her into the ground. Bervardo and Bism both finishing in front of her in 2:06 1/2. While it lasted this was the best race that has been seen on the big line this summer, and a lot of persons would like to have seen it go to a real finish. Dudie Archdale lost many admirers, and at the same time gave her backers a shock by her finish in the opening round.

She is a high-class trotter, however, and yesterday's race must not be taken as final evidence that Billy Burk can defeat her in a real race. Yesterday he certainly was faster than she and was eased up at the finish in 2:06 1/2. He had the advantage, however, of not having to step fast in the first heat. Bervardo, laying him up, and in the second he could not outpace either the mare or Hallworthy. Perhaps if he had tried the first heat he would not have had so much to show in the third.

Bervardo the Surprise
Bervardo was the surprise of the race. The former half-mile track warrior hung onto Dudie at the head of the stretch the first heat and never did let go. Geers had to take his mare in hand and give her one of those famous drives to stall the gelding off. Bervardo was right there again in the second and third heats. Hallworthy nosed him out for the place the second trip, but Nottingham had the Axworthy trotter all over the track coming home, for which the judges placed him last.

The track was not really first class, as the position next to the pole in the stretch was too muddy for use, making the horses go long miles.

The first division of the "Tavern

Steals," with its field of amateur-driven horses, may have been the attraction which crowded grandstand and inclosure, but if it was it failed to hold the spectators after a couple of heats had been decided. It was almost sunset when Henry H. caused the much-heralded event to be continued over night by finishing first on a pace.

The Illinois gelding won the first heat handily in 2:11 1/2, just managed to beat Fair Maiden in the second in 2:10 1/2, and in the third Robert A. and Creighton made the going so hard for him that he changed gait, for which he was set back and the heat given to John R. Townsend's Robert A. in 2:12 1/2.

The 2:06 pacers were a sorry lot and in a four heat affair, which out of courtesy is called a race, Slaughter finally scored a win on the Grand Circuit. Good Goods jogged home the first heat in 2:05 1/2, died away at the end of the second mile in 2:07 1/2 and never was afterward dangerous. Caffeno's effort was also only a flash, which allowed the son of Ananias, who spent his colthood in the infield of the track, to win as he liked. King Cole, the favorite, never showed and finished behind the money.

Gamar, the Indiana gamecock, romped off with the 2:12 trot in 2:08 1/2, 2:08 1/2, without an effort, just as expected.

Ulian to Try Again Today
Ulian, 2:01, will be seen again today in an attempt to get nearer the two-minute mark division by his owner and pulling a wagon. The summary:

HAL CHASE, WHO MAY BE OUT OF GAME FOR REST OF SEASON

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The hopes of the New York American league fans here have been blasted. Until a month ago the followers of the Highlanders figured their favorites had an excellent chance to land the much coveted pennant; but judging by the recent poor showing, the team will have to do some tall hustling in order to finish in third place. The present western trip of the team has proved a disastrous one for the Highlanders, they having lost the majority of the games played. Added to this is the fact that Hal Chase, the Highlanders' spectacular first sacker and captain, may be out of the game for the rest of the season. According to Manager Stallings, Hal's eyes are in very bad condition. Even if it is possible for the wonderful first sacker, to play again it will be probably a month before he is in shape to get back in harness. It was during the Chicago series in New York that Chase took sick and had to retire. He didn't accompany the team on its trip to Boston and didn't join them until they reached Cleveland, where he got back in the game, but didn't display anywhere near the batting ability or activity in fielding and base running that he is noted for. Stallings certainly has his troubles bunched fast now. The Highlanders are badly crippled, and it looks like hard sledding for the team from now until the close of the season.

ANNUAL OUTING

Of the United Irish League

The annual "Ho for the Beach" to Revere beach under the auspices of the United Irish league was held yesterday and despite the lowering clouds and threatening weather about 300 ventured the trip. While the attendance was not so large as it has been in former years the affair proved to be one of the most enjoyable ever conducted by the local branch of the league.

Special cars left Merrimack square at 7:15, 7:45 and 8:15 in the morning, while another car left the square at 2:15 in the afternoon. The ride to the beach was greatly enjoyed. Upon reaching the beach the merry-makers wended their way along the boulevard and "took in" the various forms of amusement, special privileges having been granted the members of the party on this occasion. After several hours of sight seeing along the boulevard and bathing in the surf, dinner was enjoyed.

The Metropolitan hotel was the headquarters for the day and Mr. F. W. Wesson, the genial proprietor of the hotel, did everything in his power to make the guests comfortable. After dinner Wonderland was visited, the members of the party also being extended special privileges at this popular amusement grounds. At Dinner National Treasurer T. B. Fitzpatrick, National Secretary John O'Callaghan, and Dr. Dillon of the national committee of the United Irish league, who were present, expressed disappointment in the unfavorable condition of the weather in the morning, but were glad to see that it had not dampened the enthusiasm of the 300 present.

The return to the city was made in three sections, the specials leaving the beach at 5:30, 6 and 6 o'clock. The success of the affair was due to the work of E. J. Gallagher and Dennis McDowell, who as general and assistant general managers, were untiring in their efforts to make all have a good time. Others in charge were President Michael Bourke, Patrick Connolly, recording secretary, and Peter Desmond, financial secretary.

METCALF COMET

Was Seen From the Naval Observatory

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 12.—The comet discovered this week by Rev. Joel H. Metcalf of Taunton has been observed from the United States naval observatory at Washington and photographed at the Harvard college observatory. The following statement was given out at the Harvard observatory today: "A telegram has been received at this observatory from Captain Dewitt Vesper, superintendent of the United States naval observatory, Washington, stating that Metcalf's comet was observed by Mr. H. E. Burton on Aug. 10, 1910, in the following position: Right ascension 16 hours, 10 minutes, 29.3 seconds; declination plus 14 degrees, 56 minutes, 41 seconds.

A photograph of the region obtained here with the eight-inch Draper telescope on Aug. 9, 15 hours, 7 minutes, Greenwich mean time, shows this object. Measures of the comet on this plate by Mrs. Fleming give the approximate position: Right ascension 16 hours, 12 minutes, 59 seconds; declination plus 14 degrees, 47 minutes, 32 seconds.

AN EXPLOSION

In a House in Providence Today

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 12.—An explosion of illuminating gas at the home of Isaac Thurber, an assayer, and his wife, Dr. Emily Thurber, on Third street today, wrecked one side of the dwelling and severely burned Mrs. Thurber. Arising early today Mr. Thurber detected an odor of gas and started on a search for the leaking jet. Lighting the gas in the hall he opened a door to an adjoining room, which was filled with gas. Immediately there was a terrific explosion which knocked him to the floor, blew out the side of the building and lifted part of the roof. A fire started but was quickly extinguished. Mr. Thurber's face and hands were badly burned. The house is a large 2 1/2 story wooden structure.

FRIDAY RECEPTION OMITTED

ROME, Aug. 12.—Cardinal Merry del Val did not hold the customary Friday reception to diplomats this week, and the omission is regarded as significant. Postponements of these receptions is frequent in summer, but in view of the situation it would appear that the papal secretary has deliberately delayed a meeting with Marquis de Gonzales, councillor to the Spanish embassy at the vatican, rather than to have atforded the marquis an opportunity to show his friendliness as he did last Tuesday, when he attended high mass celebrated in honor of the anniversary of the coronation of Pius X. Cardinal Merry del Val came to Rome last night to participate in the work of one of the congregations, but later returned to his villa on Montemario, having notified the diplomats that today's reception would be abandoned.

Of Spalding Light Cavalry at Westford

The annual outing and reunion of the Spalding Light Cavalry was held at Westford yesterday with an attendance of about 200 despite the threatening weather. There were many ladies present.

The return to Lake St. John will be attempted by the Peribonka river, which is about 350 miles in length from its source to the lake. The expedition expects to return to Middlebury the latter part of September.

NARROW ESCAPE

Young Man Run Down by Auto

August Levesque, who resides in Aiken avenue, had a narrow escape from being seriously injured at the corner of Fletcher and Cross streets, last evening, while trying to avoid being run down by an automobile. The young man escaped with aching more serious than a severe shaking up and a few slight bruises.

The automobile was passing through Fletcher street at a moderate rate of speed and Levesque and another young man were riding their bicycles through Cross street. On account of the sharp curve neither saw the other's approach until a collision seemed almost inevitable.

When Levesque saw that a collision was imminent he made a sharp turn and was thrown from his wheel. The driver of the automobile applied the brakes as quickly as possible and brought the machine to a stop just as the front part of the machine was about to pass over the man. The man

SENATOR ALDRICH GOING WEST AND WILL REPLY TO BRISTOW'S CHARGES

WARWICK, N.H., Aug. 12.—United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich is preparing for his trip through the west, when he will make several political speeches in defense of the tariff and will doubtless reply to the charges recently made by Senator Bristow of Kansas regarding the rubber schedules of the Payne-Aldrich bill.

Senator Aldrich has promised to issue a statement in answer to the Bristow accusations in a few days and also will talk about them in the heart of the insurgents' country. He reiterates his demonstration to retire from the senate and declares that his trip westward is only in defense of the tariff law. He has told some of the friends who have talked with him in regard to the matter that he is proud of the part he played in framing the rubber and cotton schedules and that he will make the reasons for his course absolutely plain.

THE PACIFIC MILLS May Control Merrimack Manufacturing Co.

Fibre and Fabric for the current week contains the following article relative to the Merrimack Manufacturing Co. and the Boott mills of this city:

Less than four weeks ago there was a private sale of Merrimack shares at 40. Then the price advanced to 41 and up to 42, and at a recent auction 49@50 was paid for the stock. At the present time it would take 52@53 probably to secure any of the shares, as there is again the under current that something is going on that will eventually change the control of this property or separate it from its printing outfit, just as the Hamilton print works were taken from that corporation. The bidder of the shares at the auction recently attracted unusual interest, as his evident desire to get hold of the stock satisfied those who watch proceedings with more than ordinary care that he had an order to fill, and he was extremely anxious to fill it. The past and present affiliations of the man added interest to his buying, and regardless of details there is a pretty well grounded belief that the Pacific Mills will control the Merrimack Co. in due time, if they do not control it at present. We have known for a long time that Merrimack shares were being accumulated for some purpose, and as many as 10,000 shares were held at one time. Either some of this block was sold six months ago, when the stock sold up to 60, or there was outside selling and an opportunity for purchase of enough shares to complete the control, and where the accumulation now stands only insiders know, but interests not one thousand miles from State street could give out some interesting information if they would talk.

May Not Want It

Perhaps the Pacific Mills do not want the Merrimack property, but they would naturally secure it rather than allow control to get the other side of Providence, and the natural place for Merrimack is under Pacific control, a centralization of a great printing property at Lowell, with mills in Dover, Lowell and Lawrence, to feed the presses. When the Manchester Print Works were disposed of the equipment went to the Cochoeco works at Dover. Later the combined Manchester and Cochoeco outfits went to Lawrence, and now the Hamilton Print Works will go to Lawrence. The Manchester-Cochoeco purchase by Pacific Mills was one of the best bargains a mill corporation ever secured. The Hamilton outfit cost all it was worth, $400,000 for the copper rolls, printing equipment and trade names, so no one is told, and about as much more for goods on hand. The Merrimack Co. can be acquired at bargain figures at present quotations, as at 53@55 the common shares, carrying absolute voting control, would cost only $1,800,000, and preferred shareholders would like nothing better than to exchange their holdings to Pacific Mills stock.

It has developed that everything east of Providence has gone to the Pacific interests and everything west of that city has gone to the United States Finishing Co., and should the latter concern desire it, they could acquire the North Adams properties readily. No one believes that there is any understanding regarding the division of territory, as President Wright probably has not the slightest desire to come farther east, any more than Treasurer Green has any inclination to go farther west, but the two great cloth printing concerns promise to be the United States Finishing Co., finishing and printing fabrics for mills, jobbers and converters and having no manufacturing alliances whatever, and the Pacific Mills, with an enormous printing plant to print fabrics for general distribution from cloths produced in their own mills.

The financial statement of the Mermrimack Mfg. Co. for the fiscal year will be read with interest. It follows:

ASSETS
Real estate	$1,794,015
Machinery	1,005,090
Merchandise	2,572,124
Cash and receivables	1,589,240
	$7,960,469
LIABILITIES
Capital stock	$4,400,000
Planting debts	2,572,781
Profit and loss	608,685
	$7,581,466

From these figures we find the Merrimack corporation with $4,400,000 assets in merchandise and cash and receivables, against debts of $2,572,781, which leaves net quick assets of $1,827,219. With its two properties, one at Lowell and one in Alabama, the corporation has close to 350,000 spindles and 9700 looms, a velvet plant of 375 looms at Dover, N. H., and a printing plant of 24 machines at Lowell.

Without any consideration of the printing plant, just basing an estimate on the cloth mills, with their 350,000 spindles, the replacement value of the Merrimack corporation is fully $7,000,000, as a $20 per spindle basis is not particularly large when the real estate and water rights are considered. Surely the printing plant is worth an even million, and such being the case, we have an $8,000,000 property capitalized at $4,400,000, with a selling value of only about $3,000,000. A control of the common stock, which carries all of the voting privileges, would cost about $1,500,000 at present market prices for the stock.

There is one unit that, physically at least, should go to the Pacific Mills, and that is the Atlantic Mills, which divides the Pacific cloth mills. It would cost a good bit of money to buy the Atlantic Mills now, but not so long ago control was handed to the Pacific corporation at a little over $50 a share ($500,000), and returned for some unaccountable reason. It would probably cost $1,000,000 or more to buy the Atlantic Mills at the present time, and we have no reason to name any figure, as we have not heard the question of a sale raised since the Amory interests bought control at the time the stock was acquired by Boston parties.

HAMILTON MANUFACTURING CO.

The annual statement of the Hamilton Manufacturing Co. of Lowell shows that corporation to have had assets of $3,336,134 to offset debts of $2,570,186, on July 14, the date of the annual meeting. The surplus on that date was $561,506. From the above figures the net quick assets were $750,978, and presumably the money for the sale of the print works does not show, so that at the present time the company is even stronger financially than at the time of the annual meeting. At any rate, there is heavy approval of Treasurer Sharp's sale of the print works, as it is believed that the Hamilton Co. will make more rapid progress without carrying the print works than it did with them. The company is credited with 115,175 spindles and the manufacturing property is in pretty good condition, and the cloth mills alone would cost $2,300,000 to replace and the real estate owned is valuable, so that at par the corporation is very conservatively capitalized. At the present time the selling value, according to later quotations for the stock, is $1,440,000, and at quoted prices the shares are desirable for a permanent investment as well as $200 market value increase as soon as conditions permit a normal business in cotton manufacturing.

BOOTT MILLS

The Boott mills, under the progressive management of Treasurer Plathier and Agent Thomas, are fast reaching the state of perfection desired by the management, and in conjunction with the Wellington Sears & Co. selling agency, this corporation has a remarkably bright future. Frederick A. Plathier is one of the young and practical New England mill treasurers who have a bright future as captain-generals in cotton production, and he has rearranged and added equipment until the Boott mills are prepared to meet practically every demand and fancy of the jobbers and converting trade. From the 3700 looms and 175,000 spindles about everything, from the choicest heavy duck to the finest combed goods can be produced, and economies and innovations have been introduced that will result in handsome earnings for the cotton and tariff difficulties are ever settled. Under the circumstances, Boott mills has made a fine record. Just about the time Mr. Plathier was ready to start full production after the changes had been made in rearranging the plant, the panic struck on and halted progress to a considerable extent. About the time of recovery from the panic we got the tariff agitation and then the cotton hold-up, and as yet business is far from normal, so that Boott mills has not had a year of fair trial yet to show what can be done under fair trade conditions. Nevertheless, dividends have been earned and paid, and investors who buy Boott mill shares now and put them away as permanent investments will never regret it.

THE RUSK PARTY TYPHOID PATIENT

Failed to Make Ascent of Mount McKinley Escaped From Hospital and Was Found on Veranda

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 12.—C. E. Rusk of Cheban, Wash., F. H. Roje of Portland, A. L. Cool and Joseph Ribley, all of the New York Herald and Portland Oregonian party, which attempted the ascent of Mount McKinley, returned to Seattle last night, on the steamer Best. Their mission failed, Mr. Rusk said, because the party was insufficiently provisioned. Mr. Rusk asserted that Mount McKinley could be ascended. He said he would try to organize a party for the attempt next spring.

The Rusk party ascended to a height of 7500 feet and on July 22 met the Parker and Brown party well equipped for the ascent and in good spirits. Mr. Rusk says he believes they will reach the top.

"We took the route followed by Dr. Cook on the east side of the mountain to Ruth glacier. On the route we saw abandoned camps and much of the scenery pictured in Dr. Cook's book. That far Dr. Cook's statements were authentic. Further I would not say I do not believe he ascended the mountain to the top.

"I should not care to express an opinion as to whether Thomas Lloyd and the Putnam party succeeded in reaching the top, as our route was on the other side of the mountain."

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Aug. 12.—Searchers returned, many of them expressing the opinion that he had been drowned. While walking along the street on which the hospital is situated, Dr. Joseph Moriarty saw a man huddled up in blankets, sleeping on the piazza of a house near the institution. He investigated and found Morrissey. At the hospital the patient was found to be none the worse for his experience. Morrissey escaped from the hospital last evening while his attendant was absent from the room a short time.

HENRY H. WILDER

Lowell Boy Made a Great Score at Golf

MANCHESTER, Vt., Aug. 12.—Some of the most brilliant golf ever seen on the Ekwanok C. C. links characterized the second day of play in the annual competition for the First President's cup and other trophies here yesterday.
The feature of the day was the phenomenal score of 69 made yesterday morning by Henry H. Wilder, the former Harvard crick, who failed to equal the record of 65 made by Frederick Herreshoff three years ago, when the course was not so difficult by missing a short putt for a 4 on the home hole.
This score of 69, which placed Wilder 1 up on par, eliminated T. E. Brown of Philadelphia by 9 up and 7 to play. Mr. Wilder's card read:
Out 4 5 3 3 4 3 5 3 5—35
In 5 2 3 4 4 4 4 3 5—34—69
In the afternoon the former Crimson golfer had to extend himself to win by 1 up from John D. Woodfin, the former Williams college man. Wilder fell off nine strokes from his morning score, while Woodfin was one over him at 79.
The second half score of the day was a 75 made in the afternoon by Frederick A. Martin, the Dartmouth college golfer, representing the home club, who eliminated James L. Taylor, the Gardner City veteran, by 8 up and 6 to play. Martin was 5 up at the turn, where his card registered one under 45. After ending the contest on the 12th green he required five strokes on the short 13th, and this raised his score coming home to 37. Their cards:
F. A. Martin,
Out 4 4 1 3 4 4 4 4—35

J. L. Taylor,
Out 5 5 3 5 5 4 5 4—40
In 5 4 3 4 1 4 5 5—39—79
W. S. Carleton of Braze-Burn had a narrow escape from defeat by C. W. Tinsley of Weymouth, who last year defeated Walter J. Travis here. After having the New York man 5 down going to the 13th, Mr. Carleton allowed his opponent to win four and halve one of the next five holes. Carleton saved himself by a magnificent second from the rough on the home hole, giving him a half and the match by 1 up.
Frederick Herreshoff, the Metropolitan champion, got a good start on his attempt for the third leg of the trophy by defeating E. W. Clark 3d of Philadelphia in the morning by 2 up and 1 to play and in the afternoon putting C. D. Cleghorn of the home club to play of the running by 7 up and 6 to play. This morning Herreshoff met H. D. Campbell, the Williams college golfer, who at the last moment Wednesday

CY BRYANT DEAD

Oldest Musician in Lowell Has Passed Away

Resided Here Over 50 Years and Played in Every Band in Lowell for Over Generation—Marched in Parade at 76 Years of Age

Cyrus Bryant, Lowell's oldest musician, passed away last night at his home, 417 Middlesex street. Although he had been ailing as the result of old age for some time, he was able to be about until about three weeks ago.

Aside from being the oldest musician in Lowell, he was one of the best known and most popular men of his profession and his death will be widely mourned.

A special meeting of the Lowell Musician's union, of which he was the dean, has been called to take action on his death and the union will turn out at his funeral which is to take place on Sunday afternoon.

Cyrus Bryant was born in Richmond, Vt., in 1822. His exact age was 77 years, 10 months and 20 days. He was one of a family of eight children, six of whom survive him, one of these being 89 years of age and another 80 years. Fifty-five years ago he came to Lowell and remained here until shortly before the Civil war.

In 1861 he responded to his country's call and enlisted as a member of the 14th Maine regiment. After 14 months' service he was honorably discharged and after rejoining his family came to Lowell, where he has resided ever since. From boyhood's days he was musically inclined and while quite a youth was an expert on the horn. Later he took up the clarinet and in his day was Lowell's most expert performer on that instrument. He had played with every band in Lowell in the past 50 years and was the leading spirit in the old Waterhouse band of Lowell, which ceased to exist about 50 years ago. Until declining years put their impress upon him he was a teacher of the clarinet and his services were widely sought by the different handmasters. Up to two years ago he appeared constantly in public and although past the prescribed three score and ten never hesitated to go on parade with the boys. Two years ago last Fourth of July while finishing a rather tedious parade job under a hot sun, Mr. Bryant succumbed and fell to the ground while marching. He was removed to his home in a carriage and since that time has never appeared on the streets with the band although he played at several concert engagements until quite recently.

He is survived by his wife, Sarah J. Bryant, two daughters, Leonora and Blanche, two sons, Charles and Orrin; five brothers, Thomas J., of Richmond, Vt., Rolla, of Alton, Cal., William K. of Richmond, Vt., George B., the well known musician and violin manufacturer of this city and James H., of Williston, Vt., and one daughter, and one sister, Mrs. Eliza Drew of Boston.

Everyone knew and loved "Cy" Bryant, as he was familiarly called. He was a most genial soul, of kindly disposition, charitable and generous and ever ready to impart his knowledge to a less experienced performer. He was the grand old man among the local musicians and his passing will be genuinely mourned.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon when there will be a big turning out of musicians to follow the remains to their final resting place.

THE O.M.I. CADETS

Will Be Given Final Orders This Evening

The members of the O. M. I. Cadets will assemble in their armory in Immaculate Conception school hall at 7.30 tonight and final arrangements will be made for the muster days at camp next week. Chief Marshal Humphrey O'Sullivan of the A. O. H. parade has taken a personal interest in the encampment and will be on hand to see the boys go through their different drills and games. Tonight Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., will make the final announcements, and Lieut. McArdle will give the orders to the young soldiers.

DEATHS

BOYLE.—Mrs. Winifred Boyle, aged 35 years, died today at the Boston city hospital. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband, John J., one son, Leonard, and a daughter, Ruth. The remains will be brought to the funeral parlors of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons in this city.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Despatches to R. G. Dun & Co. indicate that merchants still exercise caution in their dealings for the future, but that the outlook is improved at many points because of better crop conditions. Conservatism marks trade at Boston and most important branches are quiet. Retailers purchase in small amounts and jobbing in dry goods trade is moderate. The cotton goods market shows more strength, but mill cartmills receive heavy and while the worsted mills receive a fair amount of orders business is far from brisk.

Bank clearings this week at all leading cities in the United States are only $2,215,813,760, a loss from last year of 17.9 per cent.

MURDER CASE

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 12.—The prosecution of Mrs. Caroline B. Martin and Mrs. Mary Sheard will not be interfered with in any way by the death of Virginia O. Wardlaw, the third of the sisters indicted on a murder charge. This statement was made today by Louis Hood, special counsel for the state in the Wardlaw case when his audience was called to reports that Miss Wardlaw's death might cause the prosecution of her two sisters to be dropped. Attorney Hood said that the three sisters were jointly charged with the commission of the crime as well as with aiding and abetting it.

Miss Wardlaw was the woman arrested in the East Orange house after the death of her niece, Cecy Sheard, and the authorities are known to have believed that their case against her was the strongest.

NORTHFIELD CONFERENCE

NORTHFIELD, Aug. 12.—A baseball game, composed of lady delegates, proved to be too great an attraction to be missed, and the afternoon's session of the Northfield conference today was practically deserted. ENGINEER KILLED

Gave His Life to Save 100 on a Train

MIDDLETOWN, CONN., Aug. 12.—United States Senator Morgan G. Bulkeley and one hundred passengers hounded for the sound shore resorts on the south bound afternoon express train on the Valley branch of the New Haven road had a close escape from injury when the express running fifty miles an hour crashed into four steel freight cars loaded with ties on a sharp curve five miles south of this city late yesterday afternoon.

Engineer Frederick Bosworth stuck to his post after reversing the engine and shutting down the brakes, and was crushed and scalded to death, his body being buried in the debris of the locomotive so that his body had to be dug out. His action saved the trainload of passengers from injury.

Fireman Frank E. Champion jumped and escaped with slight injuries. Baggage Master James Smith was caught in the baggage car debris and battered up. Notwithstanding his injuries he seized a flag and hobbled down the tracks and flagged the heavily loaded accommodation train soon due.

The wreck was due to the opening of a switch on a siding just south. The four loaded cars of their own momentum ran down grade out on the main track. Had this not occurred, the express would have run into the open switch.

Senator Bulkeley, with State Labor Commissioner M. H. H. Seville, President J. E. Redfield, of Hartford, and others, were playing cards in the smoker. All were thrown from their seats and shaken up. Conductor Dowling was hurled down in the passenger coach. All were cut and bruised, but none seriously hurt.

Mrs. Frank De John, who lives near the scene, saw the freight cars leave the siding a few minutes before the wreck, and ran up the tracks intending to give the alarm. She rounded the curve waving her apron as the crash came.

WEATHER CONDITIONS BAD

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 12.—Weather conditions were unsatisfactory to members of the New York Yacht club who came today to participate in the race for the King's cup. The Winsome was the first sloop across the line while the Elmina started in the lead in the schooner division. The race was over the triangular Block Island course of about 38 miles.

A.O.H. CONVENTION

Great Throng of Visitors Expected in This City

The great convention of the A. O. H. which will be held in this city this week after next will be the biggest gathering of members of the order that has ever taken place in this city. State President Rogers of the A. O. H. was present at the meeting of the central council of the A. O. H. held in Hilberian hall last night and told of the arrangements that have been made by the state body for the great assembly of delegates.

Humphrey O'Sullivan, the chief marshal of the parade, said that he is receiving most encouraging reports from all sections and he expects to see the greatest demonstration that Lowell has ever witnessed. He spoke especially of the interest that the O. M. I. Cadets and Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., are taking in the parade and said that he is glad to see the enthusiasm of the young soldiers.

President Rogers stated that during a recent trip through the western part of the state he was pleasantly surprised at the enthusiasm displayed by the members of that section on the coming event. He said that the delegations which will come from that section will be a surprise to the local committee and divisions. From Worcester and the immediate vicinity a special train, bearing more than 1000, will arrive in Lowell on parade day about 10 o'clock. Most of those who are coming on that train will participate in parade. From other counties special trains are being made up for the journey to this city. From Fall River a regiment of Hilberian Rifles is coming to see nothing about the many delegates and members of Hilberian divisions of that particular section. Regiments of Hilberian Rifles are also coming from Boston and Worcester. Besides these there are at least 20 unattached companies of Hilberian Rifles coming from all over the state. "It will be the biggest demonstration of its kind the state has seen in years," was the statement of the president.

It is expected that the state officers will hold a meeting in this city on Sunday, Aug. 21, the opening day of convention week here. President Rogers will not look for a re-election and the candidates for his office, already mentioned, are State Vice President John H. Dillon of Boston and Middlesex County President John F. Donnelly of Cambridge. There may be other candidates.

President Rogers expressed extreme satisfaction on being informed that a grand hall had been arranged for the visiting delegates. It promises to be a most enjoyable feature of the event. The banquet committee, of which James O'Sullivan is chairman, reported through one of its members, Thomas Lynch, that Robert J. Crowley, Esq., had been chosen as toastmaster of the evening and among those already selected to speak were: Former National President Matthew Campinanga whose subject will be "National Organization"; Rev. Philip J. Donnell of Boston, state chaplain, who will speak on "The Church"; Mayor John P. Meehan will respond to the toast "The City of Lowell"; County President John F. Donnelly will speak on "Middlesex County A. O. H." State Pres. John J. Rogers of Boston will respond to the toast, "State Organization"; the state president of the Ladies' auxiliary, Mrs. Burke of Somerville, will respond to the toast, "Ladies' Auxiliary," and the national vice president of the Ladies' auxiliary of the A. O. H. will respond to a toast appropriate to the occasion. Dr. Hoxsomer, president of the German-American alliance, whose home is in Philadelphia, will also be among the speakers of the evening. There are others to be secured also. The banquet committee will hold its next meeting Sunday forenoon, Aug. 14. Chief Marshal Humphrey O'Sullivan has visited several sections of the state and has been most enthusiastically received. All indications point so he said, to a pronounced success.

DECORATIONS FOR A. O. H.

Everyone is going to decorate for the parade. Why not give your order at once to the local decorator, C. F. Young, who is prepared to do a large amount of decorating but cannot do it all on the last day. Now is the time to send in your order or telephone No. 1348. No agent employed.

MAYOR GAYNOR

Reported by His Doctors to be Improving

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—Expressions of encouragement on the part of all the watchers by Mayor William J. Gaynor's bedside ushered in the fourth day of his fight for recovery from the effects of the assassin's bullet which laid him low last Tuesday. At 11 o'clock the following bulletin was issued:

"Mayor Gaynor passed a very good night. He slept seven hours. He is comfortable this morning and in excellent general condition. His temperature is 100; pulse rate 70; respiration 16."

There was an attempt today to leave a vague impression regarding the radiograph examination made in the search for the bullet. Secretary Adams commented on the interest the mayor displayed yesterday in the mechanism of the x-ray apparatus which comment in itself indicated clearly enough that a second set of radiographs had been taken. These showed the presence of the bullet in the vault of the pharynx or in other words in the wall of the throat just behind the palate. This has been shown in the late bulletin last night which, however, left a doubt as to whether the bullet was still intact and not as had been first reported, split in two sections. It was generally conceded today though that the physicians were not in agreement that there had been no splitting of the missile and that the apparent fragment shown by the first x-ray examination separate from the main portion of the bullet was in fact probably a fragment of bone.

There was every indication today that no immediate operation on the patient was intended. It was announced this morning that no further consultation of the physicians would be held until 8.30 p. m. Meanwhile, the mayor was allowed somewhat more freedom than yesterday to receive visitors. Commissioner Henry Thompson of the department of water supply, gas and electricity, was permitted to see him for a few moments. Mr. Thompson was the first member of his official family with the exception of Secretary Adams and acting Mayor Mitchell who has been allowed access to the sick room.

MERRY PARISHIONERS

Had Delightful Time at Columbus Park Last Evening

Immense Throng Participated in the Varied Pleasures of the Immaculate Conception Lawn Party—Midway Did Rushing Business

The threatening weather of the early evening failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the parishioners of the Immaculate Conception church, for they thronged beautiful Columbus park at the evening's festivities in connection with the annual lawn party, and everyone had a good time.

Again the auto trips proved to be one of the most popular features, and this time there were autos galore and every one was accommodated. The autos were stationed in Fayette street, so as to avoid congesting East Merrimack street. The ride included High street to Rogers, to Nesmith, to East Merrimack, and many took it several times.

Instead of the Japanese lanterns last evening, several large arc lights were used, and the park was as bright as day, and at all times the light was sufficient. As in the afternoon the Cadet band gave a pleasing concert, under the direction of John J. Giblin, while the many features of the Midway were most liberally patronized.

Joe Souza contributed his services as African Dodge, and he was one of the big hits of the Midway.

Everyone admitted that the side show was a marvelous affair. Little Johnnie Curry, as the dwarf, played his part perfectly. Alan Drury was fearfully and wonderfully made up as the fat baby. Thomas Beane impersonated "Maggie Murphy," and there was some class to "Maggie." John and Martin O'Connell were the Siamese twins, and Francis Cahlin was the Chantrelle artist. Thomas Egan gave an oriental dance, and Leo Roscoe did a Sandow act.

The side show was in charge of John Payne and John J. Quinn, while William Gately was announcer. Ed Shea, Thomas Welch and George Lynch were the barkers and if ever three men worked hard they did.

One of the liveliest places and best patronized was the auction block where Mr. Charles F. Keyes, the well known auctioneer, did a stunt that was quite as eloquent and persuasive as his best business efforts.

Charlie auctioned packages containing "things." There was no by-bidding for Charlie saw the customers coming and knocked down articles at a time before they had time to make a bid. Charlie was assisted by Henry Keyes, who got your money after Charlie got you.

An interesting feature was the contest to find "Mr. Rainbow" and "Miss Sunshine," the sum of $2.50 being offered for the discovery of each.

John Collins was the lucky finder of Mr. Rainbow, who turned out to be none other than Mr. Bulger. Mrs. Richard Welch finally discovered Miss Sunshine, which prize was taken by Miss Kittie Holland.

The guess cake was won by Miss Louise McCosker and Mr. O'Brien is still receiving congratulations in winning the cake offered by Miss Annie McCarteen. A third guess cake was captured by Mrs. Mary Donnelly.

The tonic tubs did a rushing business under direction of the Holy Name society, while the Children of Mary were very prosperous at the candy table. Refreshments and supper were served by the members of the ladies' sodalities of the church.

In the Y. M. C. I. building dancing was enjoyed, while on the ground floor there were pool and bowling games. The open air vaudeville show, viewed with any professional program. Prof. Calloway and Prof. Crane entertained with feats of ventriloquism and legerdemain, while musical numbers were furnished by the Immaculate Conception church choir.

The merry affair was not concluded until midnight. Among the clergymen present were: Rev. George L. Nolan, O. M. I., Rev. Dennis Sullivan, O. M. I., Rev. Patrick Flynn, O. M. I., Rev. J. P. O'Brien, O. M. I., and Rev. Fr. Fox, O. M. I., of the Very Rev. T. Wade Smith, O. M. I., Rev. Fr. Fletcher, O. M. I., and Rev. Fr. Barrett, O. M. I., of the Sacred Heart church. Rev. John Foley, O. M. I., of North Bitterton, Rev. Bernard McKenna, O. M. I., of Buffalo, N. Y., Rev. Patrick Hammersley, O. M. I., of Tewksbury, Rev. Fr. Hunolt, O. M. I., of Nebraska, and Rev. Fr. Owen McQuade, of the Tewksbury novitiate.

REV. FR. O'CALLAGHAN

Re-elected Head of Body of Temperance Workers

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—The sessions of the fortieth annual convention of the Catholic total abstinence union of America were brought to a close in Faneuil hall last night. The closing feature was the reelection of the national officers, by unanimous vote and the city in which the next convention should be held, was left to the discretion of the governing council of the union.

The committee on resolutions through J. Washington Logue of Philadelphia reported a set of resolutions that endorsed the action of bodies that restricted alcoholic liquors from their social gatherings and condemned Catholic papers that printed in their columns advertisements of liquor concerns.

The closing day of the deliberations was marked by three addresses. The first of these dealt with the union's attitude toward legislation and was submitted by Rev. Walter J. Shanley of Danbury, Conn. The second paper was read by Rev. Fr. George J. Waring, U. S. A., chaplain of the Eleventh cavalry, and his words created a most profound interest. He spoke of the many temptations with which the soldier is confronted and said that the abolishment of the canteen was a great mistake for which the American soldier had no good feeling toward the W. C. T. U.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL
WOMEN IN THE WORLD

Ten years ago it might be truthfully said that the most beautiful and fascinating women lived in Paris.

But ten years brings many changes in these days of almost magical advancement. Today it may be truthfully said that there are more beautiful women in the United States and Canada than in all of Europe.

There's a reason of course, and that reason is a very simple one. The women of America have learned that without lustrous and luxuriant hair no woman, no matter how attractive, her features or how graceful her form, can reach the perfection that the high standard of the present day calls for.

The women of America have learned to take care of their hair. Since the introduction of Parisian Sage they have learned that filthy dandruff is unnecessary; that falling hair and itching scalp can be quickly stopped.

Over a million women have learned by experience that Parisian Sage is the most efficient hair invigorator, dressing and beautifier that science has ever given to the public. Parisian Sage will cause hair to grow luxuriantly in a short time; it will give to any woman's hair a lustrous radiance that compels admiration. It is a most delightful dressing for summer, as it quickly cools the scalp and drives away all odors.

It is guaranteed to eradicate dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks, or money back.

Every man, woman or child who has dandruff should use Parisian Sage; it kills the germ and removes the hair roots.

For sale by druggists everywhere and by Carter & Sherburne, who guarantee it. A large bottle only costs 50 cents. The girl with the auburn hair is on every package. Mail orders filled, charges prepaid, by the American makers, The Groux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

against vice, be it therefore

Resolved, That we call upon our members to array themselves in active opposition to the liquor traffic and to associate themselves wherever possible for the enactment of restrictive laws, which will lessen the dangers of this business.

We recognize that intemperance is associated with the liquor traffic, however restricted, and is the natural sequence of its existence. The enforcement of laws is as necessary as their enactment. It is the duty, therefore, of our members not only to promote the enactment of restrictive legislation, but as well, in fulfillment of the obligation of their pledge, to endeavor to see that such laws are enforced.

We recognize that the preservation of the child is absolutely necessary for the future protection of both church and state. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we commend the practice of the administration of the total abstinence pledge to children at the time of confirmation and first holy communion.

We urge their formation into societies and beseech that parents will set the example to their children of sobriety by associating themselves with a total abstinence society.

Advocate Temperance Textbooks.

We recognize with pleasure that advanced education instructs the child regarding many dangers of a physical character that will confront it in the world. We cannot fail but recognize from statistics that the greatest danger to the growing generation is intoxicating liquor. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we urge and request the introduction of textbooks into Catholic schools so that the child early in life will become scientifically acquainted with the dangers incident to the use of alcohol.

We observe with pleasure the action of many Catholic societies that exclude from their festivities the use of intoxicating liquors. Be it

Resolved, That approving of this action, we earnestly request that such organizations will assist further in the prevention of intemperance by urging their members to an association with the total abstinence cause.

Since the organization of our union we have been constantly receiving the commendation and approval of people in authority. Appreciating their kindness and recognizing the impress that has been made by them, we solicit such for the future and in doing so be it

Resolved, That we ask them to go a step further and give to us their association in the total abstinence cause, thereby in their example and association manifesting to everybody their sincere belief in the extension of total abstinence principles and total abstinence practice.

Ask Societies to Exclude Liquors.

The Catholic clubhouse should be the headquarters for the extension of Catholic doctrine and the maintenance of Catholic morality. It is universally recognized that the use of intoxicating liquors is the greatest enemy of morality. We therefore recognize the danger of the furnishing of intoxicating drinks in places where Catholic young men are assembled. Condemning this practice, be it therefore

Resolved, That we call upon all societies of Catholics to exclude from their halls, meeting places and buildings all intoxicating liquors.

We recognize the danger to our young men in their social club associations. We feel that there is special danger in membership in non-Catholic associations that maintain headquarters of a social character wherein intoxicating liquor is furnished. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we urge our Catholic young men to withhold their membership from any organization that maintains a headquarters, or place of meeting, a sidewalk or bar, or permits the use of liquor at its social gatherings.

We observe with pleasure the growing tendencies of medical authorities to condemn the general use of alcohol for medicinal purposes. We trust that their research will warrant more positive this conclusion regarding it.

Regarding Liquor as Medicine.

Resolved, That we call the attention of our Catholic people to the dangers of the administration of alcoholic liquor for medicinal purposes, and especially call their attention to the dangers of the use of patent medicines, many of which contain a large percentage of alcohol; and urge that they will exclude from their use any that, according to the formula which must appear thereon under government regulations, contain alcohol.

We recognize the power of the Catholic press. We feel the force of the truth frequently stated, that the Catholic newspaper as an educational feature is a necessary incident to the Catholic home. We condemn, however, a number of Catholic newspapers that permit their columns to be used for the advertisement of the liquor business. We assert without fear of contradiction that the use of the columns of a Catholic newspaper for such purposes is totally foreign to its mission and tends to lessen its force. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we call upon the Catholic papers of America to cease advertising a traffic that has done so much harm to the members of our faith.

Mass for Deceased Members.

The convention began yesterday with a solemn high mass of requiem in the cathedral of the Holy Cross for deceased members of the C. T. A. U. Very Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, C. S. P., of Chicago, the national president, officiated as celebrant of the mass and he was assisted by Rev. Dr. M. J. O'Connor of St. James' church, this city, and Rev. Charles A. O'Brien of St. Francis de Sales, Roxbury, as sub-deacon. Rev. William B. Finnigan was master of ceremonies.

The delegates after the service went to Faneuil hall, where at 10.30 the convention was called to order, and prayer offered by Bishop Canevin of Pittsburgh, the national spiritual director. Pres. Fr. O'Callaghan then named committees on resolutions, constitution and auditing.

Rev. Fr. Walter J. Shanley of Danbury, Conn., ex-president of the union, was introduced and spoke upon Catholic total abstinence union work as regards legislation. In part, he said: "As absolute prohibition is not always feasible, another method, less drastic, but applicable in all communities, is the restriction of the traffic in liquor by wise legislation and the enforcement of the liquor laws. In many communities the liquor traffic can and ought to be abolished."

"Experience has proved that the removal of the temptation by the elimination of the sale of liquor, in communities in which the civil authorities enforce the law, has been highly beneficial. If the traffic cannot be abolished it should be restricted. The last legislation restricting the liquor traffic has not been established. The final resources of legislation have not been attained."

Should Demand Legislation.

"We should be fearless and outspoken in demanding legislation which will bring about the total extinction of the traffic, or at least diminish the trade and relegate it from the residential districts, where it is an object lesson to our children, to the business sections of our cities. We ought to agitate for conditions that will place the trade, if it must be carried on, in the hands of law-abiding dealers."

"The liquor interest is not idle. It is most active in defeating legislation that conflicts with its influences. Its power is amazing. It is a moneyed interest and is feared far and wide. Legislators fear it and quail before it. This is a foul blot on our boasted civilization. It is a disgrace to the government in which the majority rule."

"In every city, village and hamlet you will find representative, respectable citizens who will readily cooperate in affording methods remedial for the ferocious evils developed by the liquor element. We should be fearless and bold in demanding restrictive measures."

"If we are reasonable we will adopt the best means of prevention. If we are in earnest and not half-hearted, we will go to the root of the evil. If we have the courage of our convictions, if we are not cowards, we will boldly face the power of the liquor element; we will exert our best energies to defeat its schemes; we will contend unflinchingly for prohibitive and restrictive excise laws, and demand their enforcement."

Chaplain Waring Defends Soldier.

Rev. Fr. George J. Waring, chaplain of the 11th cavalry, delivered to the convention by the war department, then read a paper in defence of the American soldier. He said in part:

"There is probably no man in the United States who is more misjudged and less understood by the average civilian than the American soldier. The impression which I have received after six years of experience is that very few know anything definite about the soldier and, what is more, they usually do not seem to care to find out. There appears to be a belief, which many people hold almost as firmly as a religion, that soldiers are bad, that their business is contagious and that the further one can keep from them the better."

"Many difficulties beset the path of a chaplain in his duties in the army, and unless you understand something about the soldier, his antecedents, his circumstances and conditions of life, as well as the obstacles and embarrassments he has to meet with, you will not fully appreciate the importance of making him a special object of your charity and care."

"Indeed, it is from lack of such proper knowledge and information that the W. C. T. U. made the fatal error, which makes them and the very name of their organization hateful to every soldier in our army."

Not Proud of Bad Men.

"But let me assure you at the outset that no man would be accepted in the army whose past record was known to be criminal, or even dishonorable. The army today is mainly composed of a superior class of young men, whose morals would compare quite favorably with those of any large body of young men living together under like conditions. It is the exception who is really bad."

toxicating liquor is furnished. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we urge our Catholic young men to withhold their membership from any organization that maintains a headquarters, or place of meeting, a sidewalk or bar, or permits the use of liquor at its social gatherings.

We observe with pleasure the growing tendencies of medical authorities to condemn the general use of alcohol for medicinal purposes. We trust that their research will warrant more positive this conclusion regarding it.

Regarding Liquor as Medicine.

Resolved, That we call the attention of our Catholic people to the dangers of the administration of alcoholic liquor for medicinal purposes, and especially call their attention to the dangers of the use of patent medicines, many of which contain a large percentage of alcohol; and urge that they will exclude from their use any that, according to the formula which must appear thereon under government regulations, contain alcohol.

We recognize the power of the Catholic press. We feel the force of the truth frequently stated, that the Catholic newspaper as an educational feature is a necessary incident to the Catholic home. We condemn, however, a number of Catholic newspapers that permit their columns to be used for the advertisement of the liquor business. We assert without fear of contradiction that the use of the columns of a Catholic newspaper for such purposes is totally foreign to its mission and tends to lessen its force. Be it therefore

Resolved, That we call upon the Catholic papers of America to cease advertising a traffic that has done so much harm to the members of our faith.

Mass for Deceased Members.

The convention began yesterday with a solemn high mass of requiem in the cathedral of the Holy Cross for deceased members of the C. T. A. U. Very Rev. Peter J. O'Callaghan, C. S. P., of Chicago, the national president, officiated as celebrant of the mass and he was assisted by Rev. Dr. M. J. O'Connor of St. James' church, this city, and Rev. Charles A. "This done, I am certain that it will be but a short time until total abstinence will be the rule instead of the exception among our soldiers, when drinking will be looked upon by them as disgusting and degrading, and when it will be practically impossible for drinking men to live happily in any army post. Such an outcome, of course, will take time, but each one of us can do at least something to bring it about, and this we ought to do cheerfully if we sincerely desire to combat and conquer the drink evil as it pertains to the army."

"In Fr. O'Callaghan's letter to the secretary of war, which was sent to me, he stated that this organization endeavored to promote temperance by moral suasion rather than by legislation. Commenting on this and other remarks of Fr. O'Callaghan, the secretary of war said that he was favorably disposed toward the work of such an organization as this, inasmuch as it was so broad-minded and so practical in its methods."

Fr. McDonald Speaks for Navy.

Following the reading of several reports at the beginning of the afternoon session, Rev. Fr. McDonald, who had been delegated to the convention by the navy department as its representative, said that the men aboard ship are under constant restraint and when they went on liberty, or shore leave as many termed it, they naturally felt they were as good as anybody else and sometimes better.

All the saloons that were stationed near navy yards, he knew, did a thriving business and welcomed the bluejackets no longer as his money lasted. When the money was gone they were thrown off, and sometimes as a result the bluejackets broke his liberty and ran away.

"The navy life was so lonesome, he continued, that the men got tired of looking at one another, and didn't have room enough 'to swing a cat.' The man on board ship got into a rut and after awhile felt that he was a number and not a person. He advocated the frequent writing of letters by those at home to the sons and brothers who are in the navy. This would work a world of good among the boys, he believed. "The chaplain said that discipline aboard ship prevented the enlisted man from approaching the superior officers and naturally they sought out the chaplain. He said there were six Catholic chaplains out of 24. "There was but one Catholic chaplain attached to a naval station. As a check on intemperance he advocated that each naval station should have a Catholic chaplain and referred to the splendid work the Paulist fathers of San Francisco did by doing chaplain's work at the yard in that city. He said that women could do a great deal in assisting in the work of advancing temperance among the sailors. Communication from home was one of the chief methods he advanced in this respect.

The recommendation of National Sec. John T. Shea for the establishment of a national aid within the union was approved and will become a part of the union's work. This was advocated in the secretary's report on Wednesday.

The convention adjourned after Rev. Fr. Francis J. Curran of Wilkesbarre, who one week ago entertained ex-President Roosevelt in the coal mining regions, administered a yearly pledge to all the delegates.

Previous to adjourning Edward J. Logue of Philadelphia moved that the thanks of the convention be extended to Archbishop O'Connell, Lieut. Gov. Frothingham, Mayor Fitzgerald, Boston union and the daily press of Boston, especially for the excellent manner in which the convention deliberations and its several incidental features had been treated.

Adjournment was taken at 6.40 o'clock.

DIAMOND NOTES

Lowell at Fall River.

Lowell Americans vs. Sanctuary Choir (for blood) at Spaulding park tomorrow.

The race for first place keeps zig-zagging along.

Riley, the new man, batted for Blakely in the 9th inning yesterday and made a hit.

Bob Ganley is playing right field every day for Newark and is averaging a hit a game with no errors.

Jess Burkett is working with might and main to land another New England league pennant, says the Baseball Magazine, and he is having a hard row to hoe in doing so.

Tommy Dowd, who once engineered the Hartford, Conn. league champions, is giving less a deal of trouble with his New Bedford league team and on the 26th administered a double-headed defeat after Tom Fleming's team had won in Worcester the day before.

In two of the three games Worcester had the lead until the very last pinch. Still Worcester was not in the lead a year ago at this time and still has a chance to repeat the showing of 1909.

Of the doing things in this league several have been prominent with Boston clubs—Burkett, with the Boston and St. Louis Americans, Billy Hamilton with the Boston Nationals and the Phillies, Jimmy Bannan with the Boston Nationals, Tommy Dowd with the Boston Americans, while Fred Tenney, a leading spirit in the Lowell club, was with Boston and New York Nationals.

Two tried and true veterans of the baseball game are convinced that the bunt ought to go, says the Baseball Magazine. One of these is Jack Chapman, the former manager of the Louisville, the man who brought out Jimmy

McIntyre, the crack third baseman of all time. Bill Dineen, the star who was too much for Pittsburgh in 1903. Harry Howell of the St. Louis Browns, Harry Taylor, formerly first baseman of the Louisville and a crackjack in his day, and now a judge in Buffalo, and last, but not least, the redoubtable Hugh Jennings. The other man is Frank J. Leonard, business manager of the Lynn club, years ago manager of the Omaha team. Chapman has kept in close connection with the game, and he, as well as Leonard, maintains the game would gain and not lose by the abolition of the bunt. They claim that the public is sick and tired of the bunt, which has been worked to death. It is a fact, said Mr. Chapman, the other day, "that the lovers of the game groan every time a slugger walks to the bat with men on the bases and tries the baby bunt. They would prefer by a good deal to see him hit the ball out, even if it results in a double play. You see many a double play turned on a bunt where a little fly ball is hit just as you do in the attempt to play the hit-and-run. They say that the Boston American League champions of 1903, under Jimmy Collins, who came to be the world's champions, played nothing but straight baseball, with a minimum of signs and all that sort of thing; and I believe it. You can overdo this sort of thing, and I have my doubts if it is the best thing to do. There are some batters who have made a careful study of the bunt and have it down to a fine point, but there are many who simply make a mess of it, and these try the patience of the spectators by their futile efforts to do something at which they are wholly at sea. I think that the game as a whole would be benefited were it cut out. I say cut it. I would like to see something in the line of an attempt to do away with the present overplayed method of playing the game."

DUDIE ARCHDALE WON

Little Black Trotter Lucky to Get Away With Event

CLEVELAND, Aug. 12.—Dudie Archdale, the little black trotter with three $10,000 stakes to her credit, had a narrow escape from getting her name into the list of beaten horses at North Randall yesterday afternoon before the largest crowd that has ever turned out to see the harness horses in this part of Ohio.

The Memphis mare was playing in great luck to get away without a defeat. She was saved by the senseless three-heats-a-race system and by the ability of Ed. Geers to help her home in the first two heats. Bervald and Hallworthy had her wobbling in 2.06 1/2, 2.07, and in the third mile the sensational 1-year-old Billy Burk trotted her into the ground, Bervald and Blaw both finishing in front of her in 2.08 1/2.

While it lasted this was the best race that has been seen on the big line this summer, and a lot of persons would like to have seen it go to a real finish. Dudie Archdale lost many admirers, and at the same time gave her backers a shock by her finish in the opening round.

She is a high-class trotter, however, and yesterday's race must not be taken as final evidence, that Billy Burk can defeat her in a real race. Yesterday he certainly was faster than she and was eased up at the finish in 2.05 1/2. He had the advantage, however, of not having to step fast in the first heat, Henryon laying him up, and in the second and third heats, the pace was not so fast as in the first.

The track was not really first class, as the position next to the pole in the stretch was too muddy for use, making the horses go long miles.

The first division of the "Tavern

Steak," with its field of amateur-driven horses, may have been the attraction which crowded grandstand and inclosure, but it was it failed to hold the spectators after a couple of heats had been decided. It was almost sunset when Henry H. caused the much-heralded event to be continued over night by finishing first on a pace.

The Illinois gelding won the first heat handily in 2.11 1/2, just managed to beat Fair Maiden in the second in 2.10 1/2, and in the third Robert A. and Creighton made the going so hard for him that he changed gait, for which he was set back and the heat given to John R. Townsend's Robert A. in 2.12 1/2.

The 2.08 pacers were a sorry lot and in a four heat affair, which out of courtesy is called a race, Shaughran finally scored a win on the Grand Circuit. Good Goods jogged home the first heat in 2.05 1/4, died away at the end of the second mile in 2.07 1/4 and never was afterward dangerous. Caffeno's effort was also only a flash, which allowed the son of Ananias, who spent his childhood in the infield of the track, to whip as he liked. King Uole, the favorite, never showed and finished behind the money.

Gamar, the Indiana gamecock, romped off with the 2.12 trot in 2.08 1/2, 2.08 1/2, without an effort, just as expected. Ulian to Try Again Today.

Ulian 2.01; will be seen again today in an attempt to get nearer the two-minute mark division by his owner and pulling a wagon. The summary:

HAL CHASE, WHO MAY BE OUT OF GAME FOR REST OF SEASON

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The hopes of the New York American league fans here have been blasted. Until a month ago the followers of the Highlanders figured their favorites had an excellent chance to land the much coveted pennant; but, judging by the recent poor showing, the team will have to do some ball hustling in order to finish in third place. The present western trip of the team has proved a disastrous one for the Highlanders, they having lost the majority of the games played. Added to this is the fact that Hal Chase, the Highlanders' spectacular first baseman and captain, may be out of the game for the rest of the season. According to Manager Stallings, Hal's eyes are in very bad condition. Even if it is possible for the wonderful first baseman to play again it will be probably a month before he is in shape to get back in harness. It was during the Chicago series in New York that Chase took sick and had to retire. He didn't accompany the team on its trip to Boston and didn't join them until they reached Cleveland, where he got back in the game, but didn't display anywhere near the batting ability or activity in fielding and base running that he is noted for. Stallings certainly has his troubles bunched just now. The Highlanders are badly crippled, and it looks like hard sledding for the team from now until the close of the season.

AN EXPLOSION

In a House in Providence Today

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 12.—An explosion of illuminating gas at the home of Isaac Thurber, an assayer, and his wife, Dr. Emily Thurber, on Third street today, wrecked one side of the dwelling and severely burned Mrs. Thurber. Arising early today, Mr. Thurber detected an odor of gas and started on a search for the leaking jet. Lighting the gas in the hall he opened a door to an adjoining room which was filled with gas. Immediately there was a terrific explosion which knocked him to the floor, blew out the side of the building and lifted part of the roof. A fire started but was quickly extinguished. Mr. Thurber's face and hands were badly burned. The house is a large 3 1/2 story wooden structure.

FRIDAY RECEPTION OMITTED

ROME, Aug. 12.—Cardinal Merry del Val did not hold the customary Friday reception to diplomats this week, and the omission is regarded as significant. Postponements of these receptions is frequent in summer, but in view of the situation it would appear that the papal secretary has deliberately delayed a meeting with Marquis de Gonzales, councillor to the Spanish embassy at the vatican, rather than to have at-

at 7.15, 7.45 and 8.15 in the morning, while another car left the square at 2.15 in the afternoon. The ride to the beach was greatly enjoyed. Upon reaching the beach the merry-makers wended their way along the boulevard and "took in" the various forms of amusement, special privileges having been granted the members of the party on this occasion. After several hours of sight seeing along the boulevard and bathing in the surf, dinner was enjoyed.

The Metropolitan hotel was the headquarters for the day and Mr. P. W. Wesson, the genial proprietor of the hotel, did everything in his power to make the guests comfortable.

After dinner Wonderland was visited, the members of the party also being extended special privileges at this popular amusement grounds.

At Dinner National Treasurer T. B. Fitzpatrick, National Secretary John O'Callaghan, and Dr. Dillon of the national committee of the United Irish league, who were present, expressed disappointment in the unfavorable condition of the weather in the morning, but were glad to see that it had not dampened the enthusiasm of the 300 present.

The return to the city was made in three sections, the specials leaving the beach at 5.30, 6 and 8 o'clock. The success of the affair was due to the work of E. J. Gallagher and Donald McDowell, who as general and assistant general managers were untiring in their efforts to make all a good time. Others in charge were President Michael Rourke, Patrick Connelly, recording secretary, and Peter Desmond, financial secretary.

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was 16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

If the Boston Herald had gone along in the good old fashioned way of the men who made it famous it would not be in its present predicament. There was a time when the men in charge of the Boston Herald heaved to the line as they saw it and let the chips fall where they would. They pleased themselves first, and if the rest of the world was also pleased then well and good. Those were the days when the Herald would not shift its course at the request, threat or command of any fanatic, boss, agitator, crank, dreamer or tyrant.

AN INJUSTICE TO AUTO OWNERS

We confess that we can see no justice in closing public parks to automobiles, and at the same time allowing carriages the full privilege. The man who owns an automobile is taxed for the maintenance of public parks just as much as the man who owns a carriage, or who rides horseback. Why should he be denied entrance to the beautiful parks in which he is a part owner? It may be said that machines are more destructive to the roadway than carriages, but with proper speed limitations and other rules we fail to see why the automobile could not be operated through any of our public parks safely, comfortably and in every way suitable to the locality and the convenience and safety of the public. This is clearly an injustice, and it ought to be remedied. We wonder why the automobile owners have not protested long ago.

THE DOG IN THE MANGER

Some of our selfish kickers who object to every public improvement unless it happens to be placed in the vicinity of their own back yard should bear in mind that we cannot improve one part of the city without improving the whole of it. If you cannot have improvements in your immediate neighborhood, don't be a dog in the manger, and try to prevent the improvement altogether. Anything that helps Lowell, helps every resident of Lowell. Any public improvement that beautifies one part of the city, adds to the beauty of the city as a whole. Any structure that adds to the wealth or value of property in any locality adds to the total valuation of the city. Do your best to improve things in your immediate quarter by all means, but if you cannot secure the improvements for yourself, don't be foolish enough to try and prevent the improvement that might come to your neighbor and to your city.

THE TRICKS OF A TRUST

The United Shoe Machinery company, popularly known as the Shoe Machinery Trust, in addition to all its other impositions upon the shoe manufacturers and the public, is now engaged in one of the most contemptible operations that could well be imagined. This company controls the patents on most of the labor saving shoe machinery used in this country. By the use of these machines upon which large royalties are collected the process of shoe manufacturing is simplified, and most of the machinery can be operated by unskilled labor.

Now after flooding the American market with these machines the Shoe Machinery Trust is said to be shipping their latest machines to China, Korea, India and Japan. What does this mean? It means that in a few years our shoe manufacturers will have to meet the competition of coolies, who will be able to send shoes to this country regardless of the tariff and drive prices down so that workmen in the shoe towns of New England will be obliged to submit to a reduction in wages or see their shops closed down.

If we have a tariff on manufactured shoes to protect American labor, why should we not also have an export duty on this particular type of shoe machinery which would make the use of these machines prohibitive in countries where labor can be obtained at about four cents a day. This would put a stop to the latest dodge of a hoggish combine. No decent corporation would be a party to any such scheme, but who ever heard that the United Shoe Machinery company was troubled with anything like ordinary decency, or enlargement of the heart?

CONCERNING BANK OFFICIALS

The recent bank defalcations have served to set the people thinking. In nearly every case the defaulters were given to high living, drinking, gambling and stock speculation. These practices were certainly not compatible with the duties and responsibilities of bank officials or any other officials entrusted with large sums of money. When you see a bank official living beyond his means, you may rest assured that he will bear watching. When you hear of one playing the stock market or frequenting liquor saloons or gambling joints you will be justified in concluding that there is something wrong. The ordinary bank official has a good permanent situation. He is assured of a life position with a fair salary during good behavior. Changes are seldom made among bank men, except for good cause. These trusted men are expected to lead exemplary lives and to give their best efforts and honest services to the people whose money they have in charge.

When a bank teller, cashier or other official feels dissatisfied with his income, and is anxious to make more money, the only thing for him to do is to leave the bank forthwith and get into some other business. To attempt to make money on the side, either with his own money or other people's money, is sure to lead to disappointment. These disappointments usually suggest taking a chance. Once the bank official makes up his mind to take a chance by using the bank's money to recoup his losses, he is lost, and the chances are that he will go the limit and not only destroy his own reputation but bring disaster to those depending upon his integrity.

Were he to go out into the business world and take his chances with other men, people would sympathize with him in case of misfortune and offer him a hand to rise again, but when he loses by risking the money placed in his charge he is execrated and held in contempt by all men, as he should be.

SEEN AND HEARD

A rest is a fine thing after a vacation. All things come to him who waits at the pay window. There is always such a large quiet after the big noise. Cigarettes help to draw some customers and drive away others. The milk of human kindness gets pretty thin and blue by the time it's ready to drink. Ain't it funny how much an ice cream soda will do for a typewriter on a hot day? It ain't the hard work, it's chawin' the same piece of gum every day that kills.—Boston Herald.

Love is hardly ever a cheerful loser. Full many a train of thought doesn't carry any freight. Occasionally a man does the right thing at the right time. Get busy and start something—even if it is only a bank account. Some business opportunities by any other name would savor of graft. A narrow-minded person is just the one to make some broad assertions. Lots of people are sorry they bought it every time the installment man calls.—Chicago News.

Heaps of young men act as if they would rather die young than be good. After-dinner wit seems as fresh the next morning as the stale cigar that went with it.

Raising children is like raising vegetables in a private garden—very expensive, with poor results.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Rev. Alexander McKenzie, D. D., and Mrs. McKenzie of Cambridge plan to go later in the season to Europe, if Mrs. McKenzie's health makes such a trip possible. They planned for a start early in the summer and the trip was postponed because of Mrs. McKenzie's illness, which confined her to her home in Cambridge. She has so improved, however, that a trip soon to Templeton, N. H., is planned, preliminary to the longer journey abroad.

Mrs. John Richard Green, widow of the author of the famous history of England, has told the following of her husband's courageous practical relief work when he was a parish priest in London in 1866: "On one occasion he found a man dangerously ill in an upper room. Some big drywren in the street refused to help. Green, therefore, tried to carry the man downstairs. His slight frame was unequal to the effort, and the two fell from the top to the bottom of the stairs together. The man was not injured."

Fraulein Wilke of the Chelsea (Eng.) Polytechnic school told a recent women's congress that any comprehensive scheme for the physical education of girls should comprise gymnastics, dancing and games. Net ball was the ideal game for girls, she said. Some games, she declared, were too cramped and one-sided, as, for instance, hockey. Lacrosse she pronounced too strenuous for delicate girls. Dancing was beneficial in the wildest sense. It encouraged lightness and grace, and should also encourage gracefulness and manner.

J. Carroll Beckwith, a New York portrait painter, recently established a studio at Rome, Italy, having left New York after 22 years' residence and practice of his art there. Before departing he expressed his views of the status of art in New York. He felt that among the wealthy there was not the ambition to be regarded as patrons of art that would be found among a corresponding class in Europe. He remarked a general indifference to the native school of painters, saying this school had received encouragement from but a handful of gentlemen. He regretted the merging of the society of American artists in the National academy of design, where it had lost, he said, its energy and spontaneity. That academy, of which he was for five years secretary, met with indifference on the part of the public at large, and in 20 years had failed to interest any benefactor who might give it a suitable place for the display of works by American artists. These artists he admired, saying, "I do not think I will find in Europe as much talent, as much intelligent energy as surrounds me here in men of my profession," but the absence of inspiration in his environment and the lack of appreciation for the artist among the wider public made him seek the more congenial atmosphere of the old world.

The "Transmogrification of Dan," a story appearing in the Smart Set, was later transformed into the successful drama, "The Hair to the Moorah," by a playwright, who expanded the plot, using the story for a framework. The author had made an absolute sale of the story to the publishing company, which had copyrighted it by entering the title of the magazine for copyright; but on the author's request assigned to him all its interests in the copyright, together with its existing rights of action. He then brought suit for infringement against the theatrical company presenting the play through an arrangement with the playwright. The United States circuit court of appeals in Dan vs. Kirk La Shelle Co. now holds that although the play has more characters, many additional incidents, none of the language of the story, and the characters have different names, the right given to an author to dramatize his work includes the right to adapt it for representation upon the stage, which must necessarily involve changes, additions, and omissions, it being impossible to make a play out of a story—to represent narrative by dialogue and action—without making changes, and the playwright having appropriated the theme of the story, could not escape the charge of infringement.

Miss Eleanor Sears, of New York, the well known walker, swimmer, tennis player and all-round feminine athlete, has of late been held up as a shining example of women who have acquired the habit of cigarette smoking. Appeals have recently been made through the public prints and by personal letters to Miss Sears to abandon the habit, on the ground that her example, as an athlete, would be made an excuse for other women who wished for an excuse for smoking. Miss Sears is apparently of an amiable disposition. Instead of declaring that she would continue to smoke cigarettes, or, for that matter, a corncob, by virtue of her rights as a free and untrammelled American citizeness, she mildly remarks in reply to her censors that she does not smoke, and does not approve of women smoking.

Like expert human comedians the bears go through one performance after another in quick time, now setting their audience laughing with their odd antics as they fill the audience with wonder that mere brutes could show such startling ability in clown acts. The cinnamon bears traveled all over the world and have performed before royal dignitaries with great success. They have acquired a reputation that is world wide. They weigh from 300 to 350 pounds apiece and are marvelous in strength and grace.

The little cubs are extremely popular with the children. They look full of fun and as they together they are playing tricks on one another in their cages they look as one little girl said, "Too cunning for their spunk water, put on another anything." They are very ambitious on the back and race for floating up to imitate their elders in performance. Their delight in the water and now and then their antics are really object when they are called clever, but they are now just a little too young for theatrical acts and on the stage they must content themselves with appearing lovable.

The act is one of the longest of any that will appear at Lakeview park this season. One of its features is the performance on revolving stages on which the bears jump and keep their balance with surprising dexterity. Besides they perform all sorts of circus acts, such as supporting each other in air and balancing themselves on medicine balls.

Early next week when convenient officials of the Boston & Northern St. R. Co. are going to take the bears out for a swim in the water. With ropes attached they go far out from the shore. The bears are naturally so fond of the water that whenever they are taken out they are playing tricks on one another, and when they are in the water they are very ambitious to imitate their elders in performance. NARROW ESCAPE

Young Man Run Down by Auto

August Levesque, who resides in Alken avenue, had a narrow escape from being seriously injured at the corner of Fletcher and Cross streets, last evening, while trying to avoid being run down by an automobile. The young man escaped with nothing more serious than a severe shaking up and a few slight bruises.

The automobile was passing through Fletcher street at a moderate rate of speed and Levesque and another young man were riding their bicycles through Cross street. On account of the sharp curve neither saw the other's approach until a collision seemed almost inevitable.

When Levesque saw that a collision was imminent he made a sharp turn and was thrown from his wheel. The driver of the automobile applied the brakes as quickly as possible and brought the machine to a stop just as the front part of the machine was about to pass over the man. The man ner in which Levesque was caught beneath the machine was a most dangerous one and had the automobile gone a foot or more farther would undoubtedly have resulted in serious injury to him. Levesque scrambled to his feet and was able to assist in carrying his broken bicycle homeward.

STATUS OF BANKS

Discussed by the National Monetary Commission

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—The difference between the character and status of the first and second banks of the United States incorporated early in the country's history, and the conception of a central bank as developed under modern conditions in Europe, is brought out in a forcible manner in a volume just made available by the National Monetary Commission. The volume consists of two parts—a study of the first bank of the United States, by Dr. John Thom Holdsworth, of the University of Pittsburgh, and a study of the second bank of the United States, by Dr. Davis R. Dewey, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the author of "A Financial History of the United States."

The essay of Doctor Holdsworth recounts the plan of Hamilton to found a bank for the purpose of aiding the government, which became a law in 1791. It is declared by Hamilton that a national bank was not "a mere matter of private property, but a political machine of the greatest importance to the state." Thus conceived as a political machine, it is declared by the author that the bank "never threw off entirely its political trappings, and it finally died as the result of political enmities and jealousies." The capital of the bank, which was fixed at $10,000,000, was allowed to be subscribed to the proportion of three-quarters in United States stock bearing a per cent interest, and the president of the United States was authorized to subscribe one half of the government $2,000,000. An equal amount was to be loaned by the bank to the government which was to be repaid in 10 equal annual installments.

It is obvious, from these details, that the capital was raised more largely by bookkeeping transfers than by the actual payment of specie, at a time when specie was extremely scarce. The device by which Hamilton carried through the government subscription is defined as "an ingenious example of financial juggling." Shorn of technicalities, the government paid for its stock by bills of exchange on Amsterdam, then it borrowed these bills and gave its note for $2,000,000, payable in 10 equal annual installments, with interest at 6 per cent. The practice thus instituted by the government itself of paying subscriptions with stock notes was followed widely, and in numerous instances with disastrous effects in the next fifty years. The central office of the bank was in Philadelphia, on the present site of the Girard National bank, and of the first board of 25 directors 11 were from Pennsylvania and six from New York.

Hamilton was not in favor of branches, but they were soon established at the leading commercial centers of the country and entered into clearing and other relations with the local banks. The government soon availed itself of Hamilton's original project to borrow freely from the bank, and these loans proved to be larger and for a longer time than was at first expected, causing embarrassment to the treasury and uneasiness to the bank before they were finally settled. This indebtedness amounted within four years to $3,000,000, or nearly two-thirds of the capital of the bank. The loan of so large a proportion of its funds crippled its services to commerce and manufactures and made it difficult even to continue the temporary loans required to facilitate the financial operations of the government. Ultimately the loan was repaid, partly from the proceeds of bank stock, and partly from the sale of the government's shares, which were sold at a premium, in some cases as high as 45 per cent. The government made a profit of $71,850, exclusive of dividends received to the amount of $1,101,720.

The First Bank of the United States did not have the exclusive privilege of note issue, but customs duties were made payable in the notes of the bank, which gave them a wide circulation. The bank, moreover, exercised a salutary restraint upon the other banks by presenting their notes promptly for redemption when received over its counters. The passing of the political control of the country from the hands of the federalists to those of the democrats at the beginning of the nineteenth century, it is declared, had no immediate effect upon the interests or fortunes of the bank. Though always regarded as a federalist institution, and managed largely by men of federalist leanings, it was administered in the main with any eye directed to business and profit, and it never became embroiled in political controversies as did its successor, the second bank of the United States. Only once did the treasury, under democratic administration, apply to the bank for aid, and then it was as cheerfully and generously given, as under earlier federalist administrations.

Jefferson never gave up his antagonism to banks in general, and to the bank of the United States in particular. He permitted Gallatin, his secretary of the treasury, however, to support the recharter of the bank, and the failure of Congress to authorize it was a disagreeable surprise for the business community. The renewal of the charter was indefinitely postponed in the house on January 24, 1811, by a vote of 56 to 64, while in the senate the bill failed by the casting vote of Vice President Clinton. The bank liquidated its affairs as promptly as possible, and its buildings and a large part of its assets were sold by the private bank established by Stephen Girard.

In recounting the history of the second bank of the United States, which was chartered in 1816 with a capital of $35,000,000, Prof. Dewey pursues the plan of analysis by subjects rather than a narrative of events in the order of time. He points out that many of the difficulties of the bank and of the country were caused by the deficiency of specie and the excessive issues of notes by the local banks. During the period of expansion after 1811 and the speculative profits which attended specie suspension and unwise local legislation state banking had assumed proportions which were beyond control. If the bank of the United States had been organized when commercial operations were normal and banking methods were sound, the bank would undoubtedly have had a different history. Established, however, after the local banks had enjoyed a free license for their operations, it was well nigh impossible for it to do its work without clashing with local and selfish interests. The pressure of the bank and the national treasury threatened to force resumption of specie payments by the local banks, but their resistance delayed resumption until the summer of 1817, after a conference in February with representatives of the banks of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Richmond. The bank of the United States itself made mistakes in speculative loans difficult to avoid in an undeveloped country, and allowed the branches, especially in the south and west, to extend discounts beyond the margin of safety.

The political conflict between President Jackson and the bank is not discussed in great detail by Prof. Dewey, because of the fullness with which these aspects of its career have been discussed in political histories. The charges, in summing up the lessons to be drawn from the history of the bank, that "the circumstances which gave rise to the establishment of the second bank were altogether different from those which have brought about a discussion of the question of a central bank at the present juncture; that the bank in its first operations was nothing more or less than a large commercial bank with practically the same functions as other banks established under state charters, and differed from them in little save size and enjoyment of a few special privileges; that the bank began its operations during a period of commercial demoralization and developed its practice during a period

During Change of Life, Says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the change of life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth a mountain of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period."

Complete restoration to health means so much to us that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.E.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life.

of crude banking methods as measured by current standards; and, finally, that the bank in its closing years was subjected to a political attack—violent, in its character, and even unscrupulous in its character. It is difficult therefore, to find in the experience of this institution any lessons of importance which may be of special service in the preparation of a plan for a national central bank at a later period, when business methods have been transformed by the railroad, the telegraph, and by the development of corporate enterprise, to say nothing of the change in banking law through the general substitution of national supervision for state control."

LAKEVIEW THEATRE
For the past two weeks it has either rained or looked like it, but a little thing like that has not kept the crowds away from Lakeview theatre where the Lakeview Stock company is presenting a three act melodrama entitled "Star Out West." There is no use describing the play that has been done; suffice it to say that everyone who has seen the bill has been well pleased.

For the first three days of next week "A Social Outlaw" will be the attraction, and for the remainder of the week that is starting "Tuesday, St. Mike" will be repeated at the request of many who did not see it last week.

As everyone knows Lakeview theatre is enclosed and performances are given at the cozy little play house rain or shine with matinees every day except Monday at 2:30; evenings at 8:15. And seats in advance can be secured at Carter and Sherburne's drug store.

THEATRE VOYONS

The feature subject at the Theatre Voyons today is a novel and interesting one inasmuch as it treats the question of family honor in a new and novel manner. The action takes place in the south at the time of the Civil war and hinges on the saving of the family honor by a girl after her brother has been besmirched. It costs her life and it keeps her sacrifice and the stain on the family honor a secret the brother remains a virtual prisoner for years. It is a most dramatic subject and one that has plenty of thrills. "Her Mother's Wedding Gown" is a delightful subject, dainty and with a beautiful pathetic story running through it. It is admirably staged and introduces into the play a beautiful dog and several scenes in Scotland. The comedy is a big laugh and the musical program is pleasing to all. The usual Sunday concert will be given next Sunday and a most pleasing program will be offered.

CANOBIE LAKE THEATRE

Judging from the increase in attendance at Canobie Lake theatre since vaudeville has been installed, Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill theatregoers are saying to themselves, "If it's good, it's Gorman's"; if it's Gorman's, it's good. Never before in the history of this pretty summer theatre has there been such an overflowing attendance. Mr. J. W. Gorman fully realizes that Canobie lake patrons appreciate the best, and he is surely giving them what they want. The following excellent bill speaks for itself.

Burdette, Johnson & Burdette—a winsome girl and two clever men in acrobatic feats.

Marguerite Murray and Joseph M. Baker, in a unique presentation of singing and dancing novelties.

Estelle, impersonator and character vocalist.

Marion and Helms, in a little old-time minstrelsy.

The famous Cowboy quartet, with Bert LaMont, America's acknowledged highest tenor, in quartet singing, dancing, funny stories and laughable songs. This excellent offering will open their engagement Monday, Aug. 15, with a special matinee.

CHINAMAN HELD

IT IS THOUGHT HE WAS SMUGGLED INTO THIS COUNTRY

BOSTON, Aug. 12.—A Chinaman who gave his name as Joe Key, believed to be one of six Chinamen smuggled into this port yesterday on the steamer Saxonia, was arrested today when found wandering about the steamship docks in East Boston. Immigration Inspector McCabe will attempt to find out if he was smuggled into this country.

A BIG INCREASE

In the Consumption of Sugar

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—Sugar consumption of the United States in the fiscal year just ended was larger than ever before, and was also drawn largely from our own fields and plantations in both continental United States and in the contiguous territories. The quantity of sugar consumed in the country during the fiscal year just ended was, according to estimates of the bureau of statistics of the department of commerce and labor, 724 million pounds, speaking in round terms, or an average of 92 pounds per capita. On only two occasions, 1900 and 1907, had the consumption crossed the 7 billion line, and on only four other occasions, 1908, 1909, 1905 and 1903, had the total passed the 6 billion line.

In supplying this largest quantity of sugar ever consumed in the United States, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the best sugar fields of the United States contributed in each case larger quantities for domestic consumption, than ever before. The Philippines contributed a larger quantity than at any other time since annexation while the contributions of the cane fields of the United States were slightly less than in several earlier years. The quantity of sugar sent to the United States from the Hawaiian Islands in the fiscal year 1910 was 111 million pounds, against 1079 million in 1908, the former high record year; from Porto Rico, 569 million pounds, against 488 million in 1909, the former high record year; and from the Philippine Islands, 176 million pounds, total larger than in any year since 1898. The contribution of the best sugar fields of the United States to the consumption of the fiscal year 1910 was 1025 million pounds, against 967 million in the high record year, 1907; while the cane sugar product of the United States contributed 760 million pounds, against 829 million in 1908, the former high record year.

As a consequence of this increased supply from Porto Rico, the Philippine Islands and the best sugar fields of the United States, the quantity of sugar imported from foreign countries fell from 5106 million pounds in the fiscal year, 1909, to 3918 million in 1910.

From these figures it appears that the sugar fields of continental United States supplied about 54 per cent of the consumption in this country in the fiscal year 1910, the non-contiguous territories of the United States about 23 per cent, and foreign countries about 23 per cent. In 1909 foreign countries supplied about 75 per cent of the total sugar consumption of the country.

The reaction in the share which foreign countries are supplying of the sugar consumed in the United States from an average of about 75 per cent prior to 1900 down to a little more than 50 per cent at the present time is due in part to an increase in the production of beet sugar in the United States and in part to increased contributions from the non-contiguous territories. In the calendar year 1909 the quantity of beet sugar produced in the United States was, according to figures of the department of agriculture, 1,025 million pounds, against 73 million in 1898, a decade earlier, or 15 times as much in 1909 as in 1898. The quantity of cane sugar produced in the country was, in 1909, according to the same authority, 750 million pounds, against 569 million in 1898. The quantity of cane sugar brought from Hawaii in the fiscal year 1910 was, according to figures of the bureau of statistics, 1,111 million pounds, against 505 million in 1909; from Porto Rico, 569 million pounds, against 488 million in 1908; and from the Philippine Islands, 176 million pounds, against 49 million in 1900.

The contribution of the sugar fields of continental United States to the consumption of the fiscal year 1910 was thus 1775 million pounds, of which 1025 million pounds was beet sugar and 750 million pounds cane sugar. Prior to 1907 the quantity of cane sugar produced in the United States exceeded that from beets. Beginning with 1907, the quantity supplied from beets exceeded that from cane and has so continued down to the present time. The growth of beet sugar production in the United States during the last 12 years has been much more rapid than that of cane sugar, the best sugar crop of 1898 having been 69 million pounds, and that of 1909, 1025 million, while that of cane in 1898 was 708 million pounds, and in 1909, 750 million pounds. The quantity of sugar brought from the non-contiguous territories has also largely increased meantime, having been in the fiscal year 1900: from Hawaii, 505 million pounds; against 111 million in 1910; from Porto Rico, 73 million pounds; against 569 million in 1910; and from the Philippines, 49 million, against 176 million in 1910, making the total from the non-contiguous territories in 1900 about 627 million pounds, against 1856 million in 1910, or practically three times as much in 1910 as in 1900.

Adding to the domestic sugar production in the calendar year 1909 the receipts from the non-contiguous territories and the imports from foreign countries in the fiscal year 1910, and deducting the quantity shipped from continental United States, gives a total consumption of 7,360 million pounds, an average of 31.36 pounds per capita, the largest, with two exceptions, in the history of the country. In 1870 the per capita consumption was 32.73 pounds; in 1880, 39.45 pounds; in 1890, 51 pounds; in 1907, the high record year, 82.61 pounds; and in 1910, as already stated, 81.86 pounds. Meanwhile the share of domestic consumption supplied by foreign sugar has fallen from an average of 75 per cent prior to 1900 to 51 per cent in 1910.

DON JAIME'S LETTER

SAN SEBASTIEN, Aug. 12.—Don Jaime, the Carlist pretender to the throne, today issued a letter addressed to the leaders of the Carlists in which he advises his followers to resist with all their force the rising tide of radicalism but not to have recourse to violence.

The pretender says that he does not purpose to depart from pacific methods unless the existing regime is threatened.

ACTING MAYOR

Wants Salary for His Services

LAWRENCE, Aug. 12.—Acting Mayor Jordan and City Treasurer Kelleher went to Boston yesterday and delivered the $100,000 paving loan bond to the Old Colony Trust company to which the issue was sold.

Mr. Jordan today signed the bills included in the July draft. This is the first draft to be paid since he assumed the duties of executive.

It will include a bill of his own, amounting to $22.58 for services as acting mayor during the latter part of July. Some question has been raised by friends of Dr. Cahill, a candidate for mayor, as to the legality of this charge. Mr. Jordan says he has the opinion of the city solicitor as to the validity.
